DECLARES

Washington, Jan. 23 (AP)—Fear that the United States may be cut off from its Middle East oil supply by the current strife over Palestine was expressed today by Chairman Solov (R-Mo.) of a House armed services subcommittee.

Accordingly, Solov said the government should start hunting for new oil resources in Central and South America and press work on synthetic fuels.

Without disclosing what testimony his group heard during four days of closed-door sessions with military leaders, the Missouriian told reporters he regards the United Nations decision to partition Palestine as "a grave mistake," and added:

"We on the subcommittee want to know whether the United States delegation consulted with our military authorities before this country threw its weight behind the partition proposal.

"That decision has made our position in the Middle East very insecure. There are 350,000,000 Moslems seething and bitter.

Short continued:

"We are trying to prod the Army, Navy and Air Force to get the state department to work on developing new oil operations in Central and South America so we won't be completely starved for oil in the event of another conflict."

Announcing that the subcommittee will hear testimony next week on experiments with synthetic fuels, Solov said:

"We cannot just sit on our hands and wait until another war comes, then try to develop synthetic oil. We must get it now."

Two Courts Dodge
Trial of Judge In
Topsy Driving Case

Detroit, Jan. 22 (AP)—Circuit Court Judge G. B. Murphy's drunk-driving trial was bypassed by the second of two Detroit traffic courts today and turned over to visiting Circuit Judge Philip Elliott of Flint.

Defense Attorney Walter Nelson said Judge Murphy would waive a jury and that he expected to go before Elliott today.

Earlier, Traffic Judge George T. Murphy, no relation to the defendant, left to Nelson the decision as to whether his client would be tried before him or the visiting judge.

Judge Elliott has been in Detroit for several days to lighten the load of cases on the two traffic juries.

Meanwhile, Mrs. Myrtle Moore, 53, mother of the state's star witness, Robert J. Moore, repeated her son's story of a purported bribery attempt. She was asked to make a formal statement at the prosecutor's office.

RUSSIANS BARRED

Ottawa, Jan. 23 (AP)—The Canadian defense and external affairs departments announced last night that Russian military representatives have been forbidden to visit Canadian military installations because similar privileges have been denied Canada's military attaché in Moscow.

Residents of State
Pay $2,294,600,000
Total Tax For 1947

Lansing, Jan. 23 (AP)—The total tax bill paid by Michigan residents to federal, state and local governments slumped slightly in 1947 but still was rolling along at the substantial rate of $2,294,600,000.

The state revenue department, in its annual report and survey of tax trends, said Michigan taxpayers paid the federal government $1,778,100,000 last year, while the state government collected $284,300,000 and local governments $232,200,000.

The 1947 payments represented a reduction of $101,000,000 but it was all in federal taxes, largely corporate income taxes and other excises.

The state's revenue collections increased about $59,000,000 and local government taxes increased $27,000,000.

The survey said that "in 1930 before the development of the trend toward shifting tax burdens and the responsibilities of various governmental functions to the higher levels, the federal collections were 23.8 per cent of the total tax burden."

But in 1940, the federal government was taking 48.25 per cent and by 1947, under the impact of war costs, the federal tax load was 77.34 per cent, the Department said.

In 1946, the Department said 32.53 per cent of the average income in Michigan went to taxes. The computation for 1947 is not available yet.

However, the Department declared, the increase in tax collections must be balanced against the increase in governmental operating costs.

Thus, although the actual income of the state increased from $140,800,000 in 1940 to $284,300,000 in 1947, in terms of purchasing power the increase was only $47,300,000, or 33.4 per cent.

OLD MAP TELLS

Fortune Buried C
Land In Flori

West Palm Beach, Fla., Jan. 23 (AP)—The widow of a once-wealthy Tammany Hall leader said today she has two maps showing the location of $76,000,000 (million) in pirate gold and is seeking a contractor to recover the treasure.

Mrs. Bula Edmundson Croker, 64, widow of Richard C. Croker, said she owns the land where the maps show the gold was buried in the years 1781-1783 about 40 miles from Pensacola.

She said the maps place gold and other valuables in 25 feet of water in a bayou and she believes the treasure is resting on rock bottom about 38 feet below the surface.

"I've been trying to find someone who is treasure minded," she said in disclosing she had written J. P. Conway, contractor now digging for gold in Green Cove Springs. "This fellow seems to know his business. I think he can find this gold, but he may have to sink a cofferdam to get it."

Conway said he received the letter and planned to contact Mrs. Croker, but his first job is to complete the search for $4,000,000 in pirate loot believed buried on the main street of Green Cove Springs.

Louisiana Voters
Give Earl K. Long
100,000 Plurality

New Orleans, Jan. 23 (AP)—Earl K. Long's plurality in returns from Tuesday's Democratic primary for governor of Louisiana neared the 100,000 mark today, and indications were it might approach 110,000 when all the boxes are in.

Returns from 1,644 of the state's 1,878 precincts gave Long—a former governor and brother of the late Senator Huey P. Long—216,928 votes. A poor second with 123,323 was Long's arch political foe, former Governor Sam H. Jones, who will enter a second primary against Long on February 24.

City of Florence
Tied Up In Strike

Rome, Jan. 23 (AP)—The General Confederation of Labor said today the City of Florence is tied up by a general strike, called by the Communist-led Chamber of Labor there.

Communist leaders said the strike is spreading throughout Florence province, an area embracing some 885,000 people.

"The strike, which followed a clash between unemployed demonstrators and police, in which 16 were reported injured, resulted in the cutting of telephone and telegraph communications outside the province and affected all business establishments and stores."

PRODIGY HAS FLING — Jacqueline Horner, left, 15-year-old Hollywood piano prodigy missing from her home for eight days, is shown after she was found in a San Francisco hotel room with Wallace Wells, 19, a sailor (right). The girl said she had tired of the restraint imposed by her career, wanted to have fun, and would run away again if she was denied freedom. A nationwide search had been started for the young actress, first believed a kidnapping victim.

Settle With Russia
And Unite Europe,
Churchill Advises

By TOM WILLIAMS

London, Jan. 23 (AP)—Winston Churchill declared today western Europe must unite quickly and demand a showdown with Moscow before the Russians develop atomic weapons, possibly in a year or so.

"I believe the best chance of preventing war is to bring matters to a head and come to a settlement with the Soviet Government before it is too late," Churchill told the House of Commons.

"You may be sure the present situation cannot last. There are very grave dangers in letting everything run on and pile up until something happens and the matter passes all of a sudden out of your control."

PRINCESS ANNE
REJOINS MIHAIRoyal Lovers Embrace
At Swiss Resort;
Wedding Vetoed

Davos, Switzerland, Jan. 23 (AP)—Princess Anne of Bourbon-Parma rushed into the arms of former King Mihai of Romania and kissed him today.

The princess arrived by train with her mother, Princess Margarethe, for her first meeting with 26-year-old Mihai since he quit the throne of Romania nearly a month ago. He was waiting for her in a jeep.

Anne had traveled from Luxembourg by train, stopping briefly at Basel.

Maj. Jacques Vergotti, aide to Mihai, said there would be no "secret wedding" in Davos. Mihai and the major came secretly from Lausanne to this famous winter sports center last night for a skiing holiday.

Anne let Copenhagen two weeks ago for Switzerland but on Jan. 10 she stopped in Luxembourg, where she visited the Grand-Ducal family. Vergotti said then that Mihai's marriage to Anne was off, at least for the time being. The former king's advisers were reported to feel the time was inopportune.

Welfare Director
Wants $10,000,000
Increase in Budget

Lansing, Jan. 23 (AP)—To meet rising costs of living and anticipated greater public assistance case load, the State Welfare Department has asked for $10,000,000 more in appropriations during 1948.

State Welfare Director W. J. Maxey reported he had asked the budget office and legislature, meeting in March, to add $5,000,000 to the old age assistance appropriations to finance an increase of 1,000 in the old age case load—up to 96,000—at an additional cost of $650,000.

In addition, he proposed a $4,500,000 increase in the department's fund to permit boosting the maximum monthly old age grant to $50 and an additional $3 per case to cover cost-of-living increases in food and clothing.

endorsed Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin's proposal for unification of western Europe as a barrier to the spread of communism. But he appealed to his political opponents to rise above party in fostering the plan.

"In trying to make a united socialist Europe, you are on the same level as trying to make a united communist Europe."

Chances for reaching an agreement with Russia are better now than "if we waited until the Soviet government had got their atomic weapons developed," he said.

Churchill recalled that when the present parliament convened he predicted Russia would have the atom bomb in "three or four years." Now "two years have already elapsed," he said.

Churchill appeared fully recovered from his recent illness. He spoke 45 minutes in a firm, clear voice and his sallies kept the House alert.

In urging a common approach to Russia, Churchill said the western democracies should seek unity among themselves "at the earliest possible moment," then take the initiative in seeking a settlement on "realistic terms."

Churchill read portions of a speech he made 15 months ago in which he said everybody was worried whether there would be another war and in which he "expressed no opinion."

Since then "the situation has deteriorated—and especially in the last six months," he said.

PARTY IS ROUGH

For Investigation Of Assault To Kill

Columbus, O., Jan. 23 (AP)—Kay Francis, the actress, became seriously ill under mysterious circumstances today and her stage manager, Howard Graham, 37, was booked at police headquarters "for investigation of assault to kill."

Miss Francis was removed early today from her hotel to White Cross hospital, which described her condition as "just fair." She was still unconscious several hours after her arrival there.

Police said Graham, taken into custody at the hospital, asserted Miss Francis summoned him to her hotel room and said she had taken some sleeping tablets. She had been severely burned, he added, when she fell against a radiator.

Detective Karl Hanna and police Sgt. Clifton said they found evidence of a "wild party" in the hotel room.

Dr. M. Rusoff, a specialist in internal medicine who attended the 43-year-old star of the screen and stage, declined to identify the nature of her illness.

SENATE TALKS
OF 3 BILLION
BUDGET SLASHHOUSE 5 BILLION
CUT BELIEVED
TOO HIGH

Washington, Jan. 23 (AP)—Republican senators indicated today that $3,000,000,000 (billions) may be the top amount they are willing to promise to cut out of President Truman's $39,669,000,000 budget.

Chairman Taft of Ohio called the Senate's GOP policy committee into session to consider the question.

Taft said he thinks $3,000,000,000 can be lopped off proposed government expenditures for the fiscal year beginning July 1. But Chairman Bridges (R-NH) of the Senate Appropriations Committee is represented by friends as reluctant to go along with a pledge of even that amount because he fears Congress may not be able to hold to such a goal when the time comes for voting the money.

Some House leaders, including Chairman Taber (R-NY) of the appropriations committee, have called for a $5,000,000,000 slash. Bridges, however, is said to feel this total could be reached only by chopping deeply into funds proposed for the European economic recovery program.

Taber headed the Senate-House legislative budget committee last year when the Senate and House never did compromise differences over how much to try to trim Mr. Truman's spending estimates.

All Guesswork

The committee, created by the 1946 congressional reorganization act, named Bridges to the chairmanship yesterday.

"Although he declined immediate comment on his stand, the New Hampshire Senator told a reporter that if the joint committee arrives at any figure before the present deadline of February 15 it will have to be largely a guess."

Bridges said he hopes that Con-

Michigan Sales Tax
Collections Cost
79 Cents Per $100

Lansing, Jan. 23 (AP)—Michigan collects its monster sales tax more cheaply than any comparable state in the union, State Revenue Commissioner Louis M. Nims said today.

The state's record collection of $187,222,000 in the past fiscal year cost 79 cents per $100 of collections, Nims reported, compared with 96 cents per $100 to collect $141,492,157 in the previous year.

"On the basis of the last available information," Nims said, "this shows the Michigan Department of Revenue to be the most economically operated department of its type in any state in the union."

By rigid auditing of merchants' books, Nims said, the department picked up $509,263 more in deficiency payments than it cost to operate the entire department. He said 7,591 audits produced $1,986,880 in deficiencies.

Philadelphia Hotels
Boost Room Rates
For Party Rallies

Philadelphia, Jan. 23 (AP)—Delegates and guests at the Republican and Democratic national conventions are faced with the prospect of paying increased room rates, ranging possibly as high as 50 per cent over the current rates.

This was disclosed yesterday by the Philadelphia Hotel association, which announced the appointment of a special committee to work out a schedule of room rate increases with Walter S. Hallinan, chairman of the Republican national convention arrangements committee.

Joseph E. Mears, president of the association, said the increase in room rates is necessary to compensate "for the tremendous loss in room occupancies during the weekends just before and after the Republican meeting" here in June.

He explained that many rooms must be held vacant on a "stand-by" basis for several days before and after such a convention.

Luxembourg Honors
Grand Duchess, 52

Luxembourg, Jan. 23 (AP)—The Grand Duchess of Luxembourg celebrated today the 52nd birthday of her ruler, the Grand Duchess Charlotte, and the beginning of the 30th year of her reign.

The 300,000 inhabitants of the 999-square-mile country observed the day at special church services. A reception also was planned in the Ducal palace here.

Educators Blamed
In Plot To Wreck
GI Flight Training

Lansing, Jan. 23 (AP)—President Truman's proposal to eliminate the veterans' flight training program was "engineered" by certain educators, subversive elements and pacifists, a member of the State Aeronautics Commission charged here last night.

Thomas J. Walsh of Grand Rapids, the commission member and chairman of the American Legion aviation committee, declared that subversive interests sought to cripple national defense measures under the guise of economy.

He charged that a "faction of educators" was willing to sacrifice the flight training program because it cost the exact amount of a proposed reduction in the Veterans Administration budget and that they were fearful any other cuts would injure the GI educational programs.

Walsh addressed a meeting of the Aviation Association of Mich-

RELIEF ON WAY
FOR ZERO BELTPellston Has 37 Below;
Soo Is Coldest In Upper Peninsula

By The Associated Press

Michigan, buffeted by ice and beset by snow, was hit again today, this time by the worst cold wave in five years.

The temperature hit 37 below zero at Pellston and was below the zero mark throughout the state.

Detroit chalked up a five below reading at 8 a. m., the coldest mark since January, 1943, when it was six below.

The United States Weather Bureau promised a break in the extreme cold by Sunday. Some moderation was forecast by Saturday afternoon.

The weather bureau reported the following below zero readings: Grand Rapids seven, Lansing and Jackson 10, Flint 11, Traverse City and Alpena 12, Saginaw and Muskegon 13, Battle Creek 16, Gladwin 17, Sault Ste. Marie 22, and Cadillac 30.

Unofficial readings list five below zero for Monroe and 11 below for Pontiac.

In the Upper Peninsula and along the Lake Michigan shore of the state's lower section, the cold was accompanied by light snow flurries and some wind.

Alma College Youth
Calls Off Plans To Swallow Live Mouse

Alma, Mich., Jan. 23 (AP)—Stewart Groves, 19-year-old Alma college sophomore, acceded to demands of his fraternity brothers today and called off his plans to swallow a live mouse Saturday night.

At a special meeting, Phi Phi Alpha fraternity Thursday night professed itself alarmed at the possibility of "physical harm," withdrew a dare and urged Groves to give up the whole idea.

He agreed.

Fraternity members did not say whether pressure from college authorities entered into their decision. The college has not commented officially in the matter.

Groves, known to his classmates as "Scotty," admitted that the mouse-swallowing scheme was a publicity stunt, which he hoped would net him a beguine.

He said he covets the vacant bagpiper's spot in the school band.

Mt. Clemens School
Basement Damaged
By Morning Blaze

Mt. Clemens, Mich., Jan. 23 (AP)—An early morning fire caused extensive damage to the basement of the Mt. Clemens high school early today, but firemen in a two-hour battle prevented it from spreading to the three main floors of the structure.

Fire Chief Clayton E. Dubay estimated the loss at $50,000 and said most of it was caused by smoke and water damage. The actual fire was confined to the basement area near the utility room, where the fire broke out.

Dubay said the blaze apparently started from spontaneous combustion in some baled paper and added that it had been smoldering for some time before a janitor discovered it at 6:20 a. m.

None of the school's 1500 pupils or 100 teachers was in the building when the fire started.

igan at which plans were laid for Michigan to take the lead in a national fight to rescue the flight training program, hailed as both the backbone of the aviation industry and as vital to national defense.

Some 250 persons present were urged to spark a campaign to persuade Congress by letter and telegram and personal appeals to defeat the president's economy proposal.

Members were instructed to drum up local support by pointing out to city and county officials that their airports would be "white elephants" if the flight training program dies, and to emphasize the economic value of the program to local business interests.

Walsh urged that all aviation organizations in the state unite under a common agency, suggesting the Michigan Aero club.

Mario Fontana, of Iron Mountain, a commission member, reported that no success had been obtained yet in persuading the Veterans Administration to restore flight training to colleges and said that the controversial eight-hour rule would have to be retained for the life of present flight school contracts with the government. A modification is possible later, he said.

The eight-hour rule, fought by school operators because Michigan weather conditions make it unfeasible, requires schools to drop GI students who do not complete eight hours of flying a month.

ANGRY GERMANS
MOB U. S. TRAINSMillion Workers Idle
In Bavaria; Strike
Blamed On Reds

Munich, Germany, Jan. 23 (AP)—Most of Bavaria was paralyzed today by a general strike of up to 1,000,000 workers. They were called out by union leaders to protest food shortages.

The strike started at midnight and was to last 24 hours. Indications in many areas were that it would continue through Saturday and Sunday. It was the largest mass labor walkout in Germany since the war.

No violence was reported by early afternoon in any major cities—Munich, Nuremberg, Wuerzburg, Augsburg, Passau, Coburg or Hof.

Strikers occasionally were rough with small stores which stayed open in two areas, but generally the Bavarians used the strike as a day of rest.

Some 90,000 Munich workers demonstrated here in Adolf Hitler's old parade grounds, marching with red banners demanding "Liberty." U. S. military government observers said Communist elements took part.

Earlier, hundreds of angry German commuters had stormed U. S. military trains trying to get to work. Rail authorities finally put on emergency trains.

Communications and industrial plants in 26 cities and scores of towns were idle. The strike called had excluded workers for the military government and military establishments, switchboard operators, police employees and workers in hospitals.

Quest For Governor
Of Trieste Presumed
With U. N. Deadlock

BY LARRY HAUCK

Lake Success, Jan. 23 (AP)—The security council today resumes its year-long quest for a governor to run the Free Territory of Trieste, the Adriatic trouble spot which was internationalized by the Italian nose treaty.

After having officially that Italy and Yugoslavia have been unable to come to a man to direct talks, the U. N. Security Council today left off several months ago a complete deadlock. The problem had been referred to the two governments since the nose treaty.

The United States hoped it will advance a new candidate in view of a series of rebuffs from Russia in last year's council discussions. The American delegation was renewed to have taken the position that it would accept only "a strong man."

INMATES FIGHT FIRE

Detroit, Jan. 23 (AP)—Thirty inmates of the Detroit House of Correction, some of them long termers, helped fight a fire which destroyed a milk house at the institution early today.

Loss was estimated at $10,000.

GENERAL DOES NOT WANT TO BE PRESIDENTWALLACE CAUSES
POLITICAL SPLIT
IN CIO RANKS

Washington, Jan. 23 (AP)—General Dwight D. Eisenhower said flatly today: "I am not available for and could not accept nomination to high political office."

The army chief of staff's statement referred to entry of his name in the New Hampshire presidential primary March 9.

"Ike" wrote Leonard V. Finder, publisher of the Manchester Union-Leader, that for two reasons he had heretofore "refrained from making the bald statement that I would not accept nomination."

The first, Eisenhower said, was that such an expression would "smack of effrontery."

Qualifications Doubtful

A second and deeper reason, the general added, was a "persistent doubt that I could phrase a flat refusal without appearing to violate that concept of duty to country which calls upon every good citizen to place no limitations upon his readiness to serve in any designated capacity."

In this connection, Eisenhower said it is his conviction that "unless an individual feels some inner compulsion and special qualifications to enter the political arena—which I do not—a refusal to do so involves no violation of the highest standards of devotion to duty." He continued:

"It was only the possible misinterpretation of my attitude that caused me concern and so long as I could believe that mere denial of political ambition would prevent serious misunderstanding and misdirected effort, I was reluctant to say more."

"It would seem almost superfluous for me to add that as long as I live I shall hold myself in instant readiness to respond to any call by the government to military duty."

New Job In June

Eisenhower is scheduled to go on terminal leave from the army around February 15 and in June will become president of Columbia University.

His name not only has been entered through a delegate slate in the first presidential primary of the year in New Hampshire, but Republican supporters also entered his name in the Oregon primary in May.

Only yesterday some of his supporters announced they would make an effort to put him in the California primary, also scheduled for May.

Eisenhower has been regarded as a leading "dark horse" for the

APPROVE COURT HOUSE PROJECT

City Appeal Board Okays Plan For Remodeling And Additions

The Escanaba zoning board of appeals in regular meeting last night authorized the issuance of a permit for the proposed construction of an addition to the Delta county court house, at the request of the building and grounds committee of the Delta county board of supervisors.

The committee requested the board of appeals to act on the project because the proposed plans show that one portion of the building would extend to within six feet of the sidewalk, which is contrary to the city zoning ordinance for construction in a residential district. The court house block is located at the north boundary of an area zoned as Class A residential.

Supervisors S. R. Wickman of Escanaba, chairman of the county's buildings and grounds committee, and Harold Gustafson of Escanaba, board chairman, appeared before the appeal board with Gohard Arntzen, architect, who is drawing plans for the court house remodeling.

The recently organized appeal board, appointed by the city council, is composed of Arthur Jensen, chairman, Chris Nicholson, W. P. Schuldes, L. J. Jacobs and Clint Dunathan. Charles Schmidt, assistant city assessor, is an ex-officio member. City Manager A. V. Aronson and Robert Clavton, parks and forestry superintendent, also attended the meeting.

The county buildings and grounds committee reported that the proposed building would be three stories high and that the remodeled building would give the appearance of being new, since additions would be built around the present structure. The remodeling cost was estimated at $300,000, compared with an estimated cost of $900,000 for a new structure.

The committee said it had not yet considered financing plans, but reported that it would require a referendum on the question of financing the project. Next step of the committee will be to report to the county board of supervisors.

Bark River Man Is Arrested Here For Drunk Driving

Louis Bouchard, Bark River, was arrested by local police on a charge of driving under the influence of liquor at 4:30 a. m. today. He was arrested after he drove his car into a snowbank on Stephenson avenue.

Bouchard will be arraigned in justice court this afternoon.

The arraignment of William Linaker on a charge of driving an automobile while under the influence of liquor, scheduled Thursday afternoon in justice court, was continued for several days at the request of Linaker's attorney.

War Veteran Is Reported Missing

Escanaba police are seeking the whereabouts of Leo Zorisky, a war veteran, who has been reported missing since Jan. 19. Zorisky is 30 years old, five feet, nine inches tall, dark complexion. He was wearing a brown leather jacket and a ski cap at the time of his disappearance.

Zorisky applied Monday for admission to a Veterans Administration hospital and disappeared shortly after visiting the VA headquarters here.

More than 200 ships were damaged by mines in the two years immediately after World War II.

Briefly Told

March of Dimes Benefit—A dance for the benefit of the March of Dimes will take place Saturday night at the Eagles hall. Music will be by Ivan Kobasic and lunch will be served by the ladies auxiliary.

Tractor Accident—Fred Fagan, of Fayette, was admitted to St. Francis hospital, suffering from bruises received when he ran his tractor into the side of the barn, while backing it into the building.

Legion Bar Opened—Cloverland Post 82, American Legion, opened their new bar this week in their clubrooms at 716 Ludington street, following receipt of a club license from the state liquor commission. The newly-equipped barroom is open to members afternoons and evenings, with Ted Henry in charge.

Apply for License—Application for a marriage license has been made at the office of the county clerk by Harold Paul LaCrosse and Sally Sederlund of Escanaba.

Attend Funeral—Mr. and Mrs. Leyon Opolka, 1530 Sheridan road, Escanaba, and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Opolka, Wells, have been called to Vulcan because of the death of Paul J. Opolka, 71, father of Leyon and Walter. Funeral services will be held there at 10 Saturday morning. Mr. Opolka died at his home in Vulcan Wednesday afternoon after an illness of several years. Death was caused by a cerebral hemorrhage.

Henry Reiffers has returned from a business trip to Green Bay.

Miss Kathleen Richards is confined to her home, 512 South 5th street, with illness.

Mrs. John Canavan is arriving tonight from Chicago to visit with her mother, Mrs. Walter DePue, 605 South 11th street.

Arthur Beauvais, 55, Dies Of Heart Attack, Ill For Many Years

Arthur Joseph Beauvais, 55, of 419 South 9th street, a veteran of World War I and a life-long resident of Escanaba, died suddenly at 2 o'clock this morning at his home. He had been suffering from an asthma condition, contracted during his war service years, which resulted in a heart ailment.

He was born in Nadeau, December 23, 1892.

He was employed by the Jewel Tea company for some time. During the past World War he went to Flint to work in a defense plant, but ill health forced him to give it up.

He was a member of St. Ann's parish.

He leaves his wife and ten children: Arthur, Escanaba; Edward, Milwaukee; Alfred, who is in Korea; Mrs. Ethel Dube, Escanaba; Wilfred, Escanaba; and Eugene, Betty, Loretta, Darlene and Dennis, at home; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Damus Beauvais; one sister, Mrs. E. J. Berger, Alpine, Calif.; three brothers, Emil, of Pasadena, Harvey of Rockford, Ill., and Louis of Menasha, and four grandchildren.

The body will be in state at the Alto funeral home Sunday at 2 p. m. Funeral services will be held Monday morning, with Rev. Fr. Sebastian Maier officiating, the church to be announced later, and burial will be in the Legion lot in Holy Cross cemetery. Legion services will be conducted by Cloverland Post, No. 82.

Four Below But Crows Are Here!

It may be four below zero, but signs of spring are here. Mrs. Oliver Reno, who lives on Lake Shore drive, heard a familiar sound, as she was going from the chicken coop to her house this morning. She looked up and saw two crows flying a short distance away.

School Pupils Aid In March Of Dimes

The March of Dimes drive is being materially aided again this year by the school children of Gladstone, Escanaba and the county. Nevin Reynolds, March of Dimes campaign director, announced today.

Each Saturday at 11:30 a. m. during the period of the drive WDEC radio station in Escanaba will broadcast the names of all boys and girls who contribute $1 or more to the March of Dimes, Reynolds said.

To aid in having the names of these children come in, teachers in rural schools are requested to mail or deliver to the radio station lists of the children's names at least once each week.

The March of Dimes coin cards the children receive are to be filled by the child's family, Reynolds explained. The children are not to solicit dimes in stores or on the streets.

Formal Education In Michigan Takes In 107,000 Veterans

Lansing (P)—A total of 107,000 war veterans are enrolled in formal education in Michigan and nearly 25,000 others are in on-the-job training programs, all partially government financed, according to Dr. Eugene B. Elliott, state superintendent of public instruction.

Dr. Elliott said the enrollment of 107,000 was an increase from 80,000 last year and demonstrated that the veteran pressure on educational institutions was not on the downgrade.

Colleges and universities boast veteran enrollments of 51,626 in Michigan, he reported, while there are 7,810 in professional and technical schools, 5,184 in teachers' colleges and normal schools, 5,112 in junior colleges and similar institutions.

Dr. Elliott said the on-the-job training program has enrolled 24,127 students in 12,578 cooperating businesses and industries—the highest point this year and only slightly below last year.

The on-the-farm training program has enrolled 2,709 veterans on 2,626 farms.

Barker Fined $500 For Kicking Boy In Eye At State Fair

Detroit, (P)—Roy B. Hix, 41-year-old sideshow Barker, was fined $500 and placed on two years probation Wednesday for kicking out the eye of a small boy who peeked under his tent at a two-headed calf.

Recorder's Judge Arthur E. Gordon also directed him to pay $50 court costs and spend 60 days in the county jail for medical treatment.

A jury convicted Hix of aggravated assault on 10-year-old Richard Hinson, who lost his eye at the State Fair last summer. The defense said Richard was kicked as he stooped to peer beneath the tent.

Judge Gordon ruled out the question of compensation, pointing out that the boy already had received approximately $8,000 in donations from Detroit agencies, including the Detroit Racing Association. A $50,000 damage suit also is on file in Richard's behalf.

During the war, for economy reasons, the Germans developed uses of relatively low purity oxygen for accelerating steel production and for the synthesis of gasoline from brown coal.

Marquette Plans To Revalue All Taxable Property

Marquette, Mich. — Acting on recommendation of its budget and executive committee, the county board of supervisors authorized the state tax commission to revalue all taxable property in Marquette county and to "further discover and place upon the tax rolls any taxable property that may be found to be presently escaping property taxation entirely."

The board voted unanimously to request the tax commission to conduct the revaluation and reassessment program after Dr. Paul VanRiper, Champion supervisor, introduced a motion to accept the committee's recommendation. There was no discussion before a roll-call vote was taken.

In making his motion, VanRiper said he believed "it would have been better if the people had voted the three-mill tax limitation increase last year." Because the millage boost was not approved, there was "only one thing to do," he added, and said he considered the committee's recommendation (for revaluation) "necessary and fair."

Vocational Program In Michigan Helps Trim Relief Rolls

Lansing (P)—Michigan's vocational rehabilitation program has meant higher pay checks for former relief cases, Dr. Eugene B. Elliott, state superintendent of public instruction reported Thursday.

In a sampling of the economic status of 401 subjects with 910 dependents chosen at random, 202 were reported to have increased their wages since receiving rehabilitation training from the state board of control for vocational education.

Dr. Elliott said 26 suffered wage decreases since their training and 52 neither gained nor lost pay.

He reported that 280 of the 401 are self-supporting, 118 have been on relief since their training and 22 have avoided public relief although they are not self-supporting.

Whereas the 401 "sample" cases were earning $612,300 at the time of rehabilitation, annual earnings of $614,446 were reported by 280 cases still self-supporting.

The total cost of the rehabilitation was $40,174, Dr. Elliott said.

Court Will Adjourn Today Until Feb. 6

The January term of circuit court for Delta county is expected to be adjourned this afternoon by Judge Glenn W. Jackson of Gladstone, and he will return Feb. 6 to resume court to complete work on the calendar.

In the interim he will preside in court in Dickinson county, which will open Monday, Jan. 26, in Iron Mountain.

Winter Recreation Conditions Improve In Upper Peninsula

Three inches of surface snow over a 12-inch blanket and a promise of moderating temperatures Saturday indicated that winter sports conditions might be much more favorable in the Escanaba area over the weekend. The forecast for Sunday is light snow and somewhat warmer.

Practically all winter sports are available in Escanaba, Manistique, Gladstone and other U. P. winter recreation centers. Gladstone had four inches of surface snow over 18 inches.

Two ski tows are operating at the Gladstone winter sports area. Tows also are operating in Ishpeming, Iron Mountain, Marquette, Houghton and Land O'Lakes. Blaney Park and Land O'Lakes offer tobogganing, and Escanaba, Gladstone, Green Bay, Blaney Park and Land O'Lakes offer ice fishing in addition to other winter sports.

They are not worried about snow in the Houghton-Hancock area, where from 32 to 40 inches of snow blankets the communities.

Above information was received in a report prepared by Henry E. Hathaway, U. S. weather observer in Escanaba.

Stephenson Scout Leader Is Chosen

Joseph Harske, employee of the Bank of Stephenson, was selected to act as Scoutmaster for the Boy Scout troop in the Stephenson area.

Mr. Harske has had considerable military experience during the last World War. He served as a Scout in the Lone Scout movement.

The Stephenson Lions club will again sponsor the Boy Scout Troop. Joseph Beaudoin is chairman of the boys and girls committee of the Lions club.

No Murders Here Last Year, Police Report Reveals

The annual report of the Escanaba police department for the year 1947 reveals the value of property stolen here last year was $8,636.94, of which $7,595 was recovered. There were four persons killed and 52 injured in automobile accidents and 368 additional accidents in which there was property damage only. There were no murders and only two suicides here during the year.

The report revealed the following statistics:

46 burglaries, four larcenies of values in excess of $50, 126 petty larcenies, 13 automobiles stolen and 13 recovered; 189 actual offenses of which 52 were cleared by arrests; 421 traffic violations and 176 bicycle violations; 918 non-criminal cases investigated, 17 persons reported missing, five reported found.

The total city fines and costs assessed was $3,151.20 and the total county fines was $1,201.

The police department disposed of 217 dogs and 81 cats during the year and inspected 56 taverns.

Tile floors 800 years old, showing episodes in the legendary history of Richard, Coeur de Lion, and Tristram and Iseult, have been found on the site of England's historical Chertsey Abbey.

Mrs. Frank Kobasic Fractures Skull In Fall On Stairway

Mrs. Frank Kobasic, 60 of 1430 Stephenson avenue, is in a critical condition at St. Francis hospital, suffering from a skull fracture and jaw injuries, received in a fall down the basement steps of her home at 7 o'clock Thursday night. Mrs. Kobasic, who has been in poor health, is believed to have suffered a spell of dizziness as she started down the stairway, and plunged headlong to the basement floor.

Her husband and son, who were at home at the time rushed her to St. Francis hospital.

Up to early afternoon she had not regained consciousness.

Rural Schools Get State Land Taxes Totaling $8,867.75

The office of the Delta county treasurer is distributing $8,867.75 to the school districts in the county's 14 townships in an allocation of funds received from the state in "taxes" on state-owned lands. The "tax" is paid by the state at the rate of 10 cents an acre.

Under state statute the funds are allocated only to the school districts, because they are the only governmental units in the townships for which local taxes are levied. The townships levy no taxes because they have sufficient revenue from other sources, principally the sales tax, to meet their budgetary needs.

The state-owned land tax was distributed to the township school districts as follows:

Baldwin, $827.50; Bark River, $231.18; Bay de Noc, $9.95; Brampton, $18.83; Cornwell, $723.86; Ensign, $34.13; Escanaba, $209.22; Fairbanks, $495.16; Ford River, $1,109.86; Garden, $1,714.04; Maple Ridge, $1,652.28; Masonville, $1,663.31; Nahma, $59.53; Wells, $113.89.

Ask Motorists To Cooperate In City Snow Removal Work

The work of clearing Escanaba's main streets of snow can be hastened and made less hazardous if motorists will cooperate with the city workmen, according to Joe Holmes, superintendent of public works.

So far this winter the city crews have removed a total of 9,300 yards of snow from the principal business streets, Holmes reported. The work could have gone ahead faster and at less cost if car drivers would have observed a few commonsense rules, he added.

The cooperation of the motorist would be appreciated in observing the following suggestions, Holmes said.

1.—Do not park your car in front of the snow loader when it is moving up the street. If you do it makes it necessary either to locate you to move your car, or to pull your car into the street and away from the curb.

2.—Do not put your car in gear and set the emergency brake when you park it against the curb on the principal business streets. If you do, and then lock the car, it makes it almost impossible to move the car out of the way of the snowloader.

3.—Do not speed through the block where the snowloader is working. It is dangerous for you and for city workmen. Use care in driving there just as you would in any location where men are at work on the street or highway.

Menominee County Schools Receive Surplus Furniture

Two carloads of furniture and shop equipment were delivered to the Stephenson public schools, Nadeau township schools, and the Bark River-Harris schools this week.

The commodities were donated to the public schools for a nominal handling charge and costs of shipping.

Approximately $15,000 worth of office and shop equipment was delivered to the three school systems.

The materials were granted to the schools from the War Assets Administration from the Minneapolis office.

The equipment consisted of tables, shop work benches, tool cabinets, file cabinets, lunch racks, lockers, drafting desks, and miscellaneous other equipment.

Early Diagnosis May Lead to Cure Of Hodgkin Disease

Chicago.—Early diagnosis and early aggressive treatment might lead to cure of Hodgkin's disease and lymphosarcoma, at least in some cases, Dr. Lloyd F. Craver of Memorial Hospital, New York, declares in the forthcoming issue of the Journal of the American Medical Association here.

He cites five cases of Hodgkin's disease treated at Memorial Hospital with survivals of five to 11 years, two cases treated in England with survivals of 10 and 12 years respectively, and survival rates in lymphosarcoma of from 23 to 52 out of 100 patients.

The possibility of curing these two diseases, which hitherto have been regarded as incurable, depends primarily on whether they start from a single spot in the body, as cancer does, or from many. If they start from only one spot, early treatment should make a cure possible. The evidence for this possibility, Dr. Craver states, is accumulating.

In Hodgkin's disease, he reports, it has long been his experience that outstanding among those cases with long survivals and long periods of freedom from disease have been those in which the disease has been treated fairly aggressively while it is still early and localized.

Sweet Method Of Fighting Tooth Decay Is Tried

Cambridge, Mass., (SS)—The sweetest method yet proposed for preventing toothache and tooth decay is going on trial in a special colony of rats kept by Dr. James H. Shaw at Harvard School of Dental Medicine here this month.

The method consists in adding a rare sugar, glyceric aldehyde, to ordinary sugar. For preventing tooth decay in humans, the plan calls for adding this or some other effective chemical to sugar at the refineries. Then every piece of candy eaten, every lump of sugar dropped in a cup of coffee, would carry its own decay preventive with it.

The plan was proposed by Dr. L. S. Fosdick of Northwestern University Dental School at a meeting of the American Public Health Association and reported by this newspaper's Science Service last October.

Adding the chemical to sugar would stop tooth decay by checking the ferment which causes acid to be formed from sugar in the mouth, Dr. Fosdick explained. The acid, if not promptly neutralized, breaks down tooth enamel, removing the calcium, or lime, which makes it hard. Cavities form and the decay process sets in.

Announcement of the tests at the Harvard rat colony of Dr. Fosdick's method was made today by Dr. Robert C. Hockett, scientific director of the Sugar Research Foundation.

Rip-Stop Chute Adds Safety To Plane Jumpers

Washington.—New fabric for parachutes, dubbed rip-stop material, adds safety in jumping from planes because of its strength and ability to stop tiny rips that sometimes occur in highspeed bail-outs before they spread to make the parachute useless.

Parachutes of the new fabric, which has been thoroughly tested in high jumps, will go into production this month and 5,000 will be made this year for use by the Department of the Navy. They will be made at the Naval Aircraft factory in Philadelphia. The fabric is nylon. The rip-stop feature is heavy crossthreads at quarter-inch intervals. Tests show that this heavy thread will prevent a rupture in the fabric from extending into a long rip. The new fabric is light. With it 28-foot parachutes will weigh no more than the present 24-foot chutes, and can be packed in the same container. It also provides a slower rate of descent, about 20 feet per second as compared with 25 feet with ordinary parachutes.

Gucky Attends Camping Parley

Joseph B. Gucky, local superintendent of schools, attended a conference on outdoor education and camping in Battle Creek early this week. The conference was called by Julian Smith, state director of outdoor education and camping and the discussions were led by Hugh Masters of the Kellogg Foundation.

Kenneth Schultz of Crystal Falls, and Wallace Cameron of Gladstone, also attended the conference from the Upper Peninsula.

The group met to outline the trends in outdoor education and camping and to compile information for subsequent publication of a bulletin of information.

FUEL OIL SHORTAGE HAS HIT ESCANABA!

HERE ARE THE FACTS:

1. There is not enough fuel oil available to supply all present users.
2. This situation will not improve and in all probability will grow worse.
3. All grades of fuel oil are critically short - - especially the grade required by Space Heaters.
4. DON'T TAKE CHANCES—If you do NOT have an assured source of supply, we urge you to convert to another form of fuel immediately.
5. ALL fuel oil users must conserve - - make your present supply last as long as possible. You can do this by:

1. Keeping temperature at moderate level - not more than 68 degrees. Turn thermostat to 60 or below at night.
2. Keeping doors and windows closed. Close off rooms not in use.

3. Installing storm windows and insulation to keep heat in . . . cold out.
4. Having your heating system checked to be sure you're getting the most efficient use of your fuel oil.

Flirting With Danger

CHILDREN WHO HOP RIDES on automobiles travelling the city streets obviously do not calculate the risks involved, but the practice is an extremely dangerous one. Unfortunately the practice is one gaining in popularity and a motorist who drives near a school, particularly the junior high school, after the classes have been dismissed is almost certain to have one, two or more youngsters dragging behind his automobile.

The fact that nearly all the city streets are unusually slippery now, which makes good sledding, undoubtedly accounts for the sharp increase in this dangerous "sport." Generally the motorist does not even realize that he is dragging a couple youngsters along the street. Occasionally a motorist is aware of that fact and we have seen several instances wherein the driver "joins the fun", so to speak, by zig-zagging his car to provide an additional thrill to the hitch-hikers.

The car hopping situation is beset with extreme danger and unless an abrupt halt is called, some youngster is going to be seriously hurt or perhaps even killed.

It can be stopped, too, but it requires the complete cooperation of parents, school officials, police, motorists and, of course, most importantly, the school youngsters themselves.

Why wait until a boy or girl is killed or maimed for life before something is done to call a halt to a dangerous practice that is growing in intensity every day?

Stalin's Secret Deals

THE STATE DEPARTMENT has released the secret records of Soviet Russia's dealings with Nazi Germany in the early days of the war and their disclosure reveals graphically why we are having so much difficulty developing amicable relations with Russia now.

The documents were seized from Germany by British and American troops. Nazi criminals sought to introduce them as evidence in the Nuremberg trials but were blocked by the Russians. The American state department presumably withheld the documents in the hope that American statesmen could find a basis for cooperation with Russia towards a lasting peace.

Publication of the documents now can only mean that the state department has just about abandoned any hope of a reconciliation with the Communists. The decision to revise the government in the combined British-American zone in Germany is further acknowledgement of an irreparable break with Russia.

The secret documents now being published by the state department show the extent to which Stalin, Molotov and Russia conspired with the Nazis to set off the war in Europe and how Russia furnished the German army with thousands of tons of equipment to carry on the war until the break between the two nations in 1942.

They show that even then the Russians were working in concert with the Nazis to shut out the United States and Britain from Europe, Asia and Africa and that the Soviets sought to dominate the oil rich area of the Persian Gulf.

The Russian aims are unchanged since then. They still are seeking control of the Bosphorus and Dardanelles and domination of the oil lands in the Persian Gulf.

Better Business Bureau

EXPANSION OF THE SCOPE of activities of the Escanaba Chamber of Commerce has come with the formation of a Better Business Bureau, which will function for the benefit of its members and the community in general.

The local bureau will be affiliated with the National Better Business Bureau, and thus will receive bulletins on various fraudulent schemes as they develop. In times past, Escanaba citizens have been victimized by mining stock promoters, smuggled fur racketeers and other confidence men. New schemes to mult the unsuspecting public are being devised every day, and an agency like the Better Business Bureau can be helpful in informing the public and curbing such illegal and unethical business dealings.

With the Better Business Bureau now established in Escanaba, the public is urged to notify the C. of C. office whenever ill-legitimate sales, advertising and fund solicitation schemes come to its attention. The bureau will investigate such matters, give them publicity and thereby thwart the efforts of the gyp artists.

Increasing Production

THE 40-HOUR WEEK may have to be set aside at least temporarily. A 44 or a 48-hour week would help tremendously in increasing the supply of goods which would most effectively combat inflation. This is the course advocated by DeWitt Emery, president of the National Small Business Men's association, which met in Washington recently. "We talk about combatting inflation," said Mr. Emery, "but after all what is inflation but an oversupply of money and an undersupply of goods? The 40-hour week was adopted to spread work at a time when jobs were scarce and there was much employment. Why should it be kept in force now, when there are many thousands of jobs to be filled and there is also an unprecedented shortage of goods?"

"We can lick inflation if we will take the bull by the horns," Mr. Emery continued. "Increase production with a longer work day till things get back to somewhere near normal, pass the Knutson bill to lower individual income taxes, eliminate the present double taxation on dividends, and decrease appropriations to a point where at least a million government bureaucrats will have to go back home and get jobs in industry, where they will become tax producers instead of tax eaters."

HOOK TO RUN

(Marquette Mining Journal)

Announcement by former Representative Frank E. Hook, of Ironwood, that he will seek the seat held by Homer Ferguson, Michigan's junior Republican senator, should occasion no great surprise.

Hook, who was defeated for reelection to the House from the 12th Congressional district in 1946 by John Bennett, has maintained a house in Washington and has kept in close touch with his friends in the capital.

When last year the former congressman made an effort to win an appointment as federal judge in the western district of Michigan, it was apparent he was looking to new fields. He was passed up for the judgeship which went to former State Supreme Court Justice Starr.

Hook is a born politician. It was to be expected to would continue to look to the political arena rather than to his law practice as an outlet for his particular abilities. Hence, his decision to run against Senator Ferguson, which has been in the making for some time.

Congressman Bennett narrowly missed beating Hook in 1944 and "took" him in 1946. He will not be unhappy about his opponent's decision. The 12th district has elected Hook five times and always has given him a good measure of support.

Since the 1946 elections public opinion polls have showed a falling off of Republican popularity and a corresponding rise of Democratic strength. This is encouraging to all Democratic members of the House and those in the Senate who must stand for election this year. It likewise is encouraging to Hook, who believes he has a chance of making the tough Senate grade if there is a marked swing away from the Republicans.

In his successful campaigns in the 12th, Hook drew his greatest support from CIO strongholds. His platform was strictly New Deal and his appeal was aimed to the left. His defeat in 1946 may be attributed to his failure to hold his CIO following in line, as much as to the general GOP sweep.

For a starter Hook asserts he will support the bi-partisan foreign policy and seek a real anti-inflation program. He also places himself in the anti-Communist camp. But the real nature of his campaign cannot be anticipated. He is a hard fighter. If nominated he may be expected to battle tirelessly in behalf of himself and the ticket throughout the state, shaping his campaign and platform to meet the exigencies of the moment.

Many authors should have been cheered by the news that a garbage man died and left a fortune.

Take My Word For It . . . Frank Colby

SECRETARY'S HANDBOOK

Q. Please settle an office dispute. Is this sentence correct: "Someone was prowling about, but the constable didn't see them."

A. It is incorrect. Such words as someone, somebody, anyone, anybody, everybody, no one, nobody, etc., are singular and should be followed by a singular verb. In your sentence the singular verb "was" is correct; but the plural pronoun "them" is incorrect. It would be better to write it thus: "Someone was about, but the constable didn't see him (or: . . . didn't see the prowler)."

Q. My boss and I can't agree on which is correct: "an hour's delay" or "an hours delay."

A. Such statements are considered possessive; the apostrophe should be used thus: an hour's delay; a month's leave of absence; a hair's breadth; ten years' experience; a dollar's worth; ten cents' worth, etc.

Q. My employer insists on dictating the word "irregardless." I'm sure it's wrong, but cannot explain why. Can you Colbyize it for us?

A. "Irregardless" is a hardy perennial that seems destined to live forever. The word is a double negative, for "ir-" means "not" and "-less" means "without." "Irregardless," then, means "not regard without," which is nonsense. The correct word is "regardless," "without regard." The erroneous "irregardless" is the result of false association with the word "irrespective," which is not a double negative.

Q. Which sentence is correct? "I could find it anywhere." "I could not find it anywhere."

World Events Analyzed

BY MARQUIS CHILDS

Washington.—When a politician talks to a trade-union convention, he is expected to say the things that labor wants to hear. He is not expected to challenge the ancient trade-union rule of thumb that higher wages must inevitably mean better living for the worker and his family.

Childs

But that is just what Sen. Wayne Morse of Oregon did the other day when he talked to a convention of the CIO International Woodworkers of the Pacific Northwest. This hard-boiled union was already critical of Morse. Yet the ebullient senator from Oregon led off with a challenge of the whole union wage approach in this period of spiraling inflation. He told them he believed in saying the same thing to every kind of audience and therefore he was going to let them have it.

In the second round of wage increases they had got a boost of 18½ cents an hour, he pointed out. Yet he defied anyone in the audience to prove that this had meant more than a net gain of 2 cents an hour in real purchasing power. The balance was absorbed by prices that had jumped up in immediate response to higher wages.

HITTING BLIND ALLEY

The third round will not mean even 2 cents an hour in net gain, said Morse, so sensitive are prices today. This was not welcome news. But as Morse discovered later in talking with union leaders, it touched a doubt that they themselves had long harbored.

This doubt is widespread among responsible trade-union leaders. They are not sure but that a third round of wage increases will do their own members more harm than good. They feel they have come down a blind alley.

One thing that gives them pause is the fact that industry, beneath a surface show of resistance, is apparently quite willing to grant the next round. While there may be real resistance in some industries, it will be largely sham.

The reason, as trade-union leaders suspect, is that business does not want to interfere with the present ratio of phenomenal profits. The additional cost in wages will be added to the bill of the consumer, who will pay still higher prices.

Of course, this does not apply to all industry. There have been examples of remarkable industrial statesmanship, such as the action of General Electric in reducing prices in the face of the current trend. While it could hardly be called a major reduction, at least it was a move in the right direction.

BIG PROFITS REPORTED

Reports of phenomenal profits are the red rag to the labor bull. Thus the woodworkers had been told that profits in the lumber industry were 40 per cent after taxes. The accuracy of this figure is irrelevant since it had become an article of faith with the men who work in the forests.

The department of agriculture reported that profits of food - distributing chains were at the highest point since the boom of the '20s. Even here, where the margin is customarily small, the figures are surprising. Some of the larger chains increased their profit ratio after federal taxes from 8 per cent in 1945 to 18.3 per cent in 1946.

Responding automatically, every trade-union leader demands more wages. He demands that the wage increases be paid out of these profits, although he must know that there is no way to compel business to do that, just as there is no way to prevent increased wage costs being passed along to the consumer.

But those who look beyond the automatic cry for higher wages are beginning to ask some unhappy questions. They are beginning to wonder whether perhaps the postwar policy of the unions has been mistaken in its simple and undeviating goal of more pay in the wage envelope.

There are those who have suggested from the sidelines that it might be better to work for long-term goals, such as a guaranteed annual wage, rather than for increases that vanish in the ever-mounting flame of inflation. Some unions, conspicuously the United Automobile Workers, have included gains such as paid vacations in their demands.

The General Motors division of UAW has just voted to forego 10 cents of their forthcoming 20-cents-an-hour demand if the company will present an "acceptable pension plan." That is a small example of common sense. A pension plan would not be so immediately and directly inflationary and its long-term effect would be on the side of stability.

The third round can do much greater damage than the second wage boost. That should be a sobering consideration in all union councils these days.

A. Neither is correct. According to good authority, "any place, every place, no place, some place" are vulgarisms when used for anywhere, everywhere, nowhere, somewhere. Correct: I could not find it anywhere. (Note: It is dialectal to write "anywheres, everywhere, nowhere, somewhere." Omit the "s.")

Q. Is "light-complexioned" correct?

A. No. Correct: light-complexioned. Complicated means "interwoven."

A Quick Hatching Is Our Fervent Hope

Good Evening

By Clint Dunathan

AMERICANS? — Are Indians Americans? A mild-mannered little Indian named Adam Castillo of California asked that question in Washington the other day, and looked the chairman of a senate committee right in the eye while he asked it.

Dunathan

Mr. Castillo said that what the Indian wants most of all is his freedom—at least that is what the 2,500 Indians in southern California want most of all. They would also like, he continued, to have the government keep a hand on their reservation lands; and to distribute certain funds in the treasury that was promised the Indian back in 1928.

"Some smart white man, he said, might own the whole reservation in six months if the government didn't keep a hand in."

TWO THOUGHTS — It is a long way from the Indians of southern California, to the little band of Potawatomes on the 3,000 acres of government-owned land at Hannahville, near Harris in Menominee county. But for the question of land ownership Mr. Castillo might be speaking for the Potawatomes.

At least he would be in agreement with the Rev. Father Paul Prud'homme, S. J., who has served as missionary to the Indians for many years, and was assigned by Bishop Thomas L. Noa to represent the Marquette diocese of the Catholic church at a recent meeting in Menominee on "the Indian problem."

To substantiate his contention that the Indian needs all the help and encouragement that can be given him, Fr. Prud'homme cited the government's experiment at Sugar Island, which we will take up in another paragraph.

OWNERSHIP—Sugar Island is located in the St. Mary's river below Sault Ste. Marie and it is occupied by Indians of the Chipewewa tribe. In an experiment in land ownership, the government decided the land to the Indians. They became land owners in title, with obligations such as land owners have. One of these obligations is the payment of taxes, but they did not understand this little formality and the lands were sold for the amount of the tax delinquency. Father Prud'homme didn't say, but we'll bet a broken bow string that white men now own those lands.

Ten years ago, in an effort to repair the damage, the government bought about 600 acres to provide the Indians with a place to live, and an opportunity to start all over again. Houses were built for them, but these have now fallen apart.

Admitting all this, Father Prud'homme at the same time reiterated his faith in the Indian; declared that while some live in filth and squalor, you will find the same condition elsewhere. Yet there are many Indian homes where "you will not find a speck of dust," he said.

ENCOURAGEMENT — When the Indian is sober he is kind, Father Prud'homme said. He is cooperative, and he is encouraged by any help that is offered to him.

INTO THE PAST

Ten Years Ago

Escanaba—Miss Rose A. Nadolski is returning today from a visit in Chicago and LaSalle, Ill., where her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Nadolski, of Argyle, Minn., are spending the winter.

Gladstone—Mr. and Mrs. William Girard and sons left yesterday for Cincinnati where they will give a birling exhibition in the Cincinnati Sportsmen's show. Manistique—Mr. and Mrs. Adam Heinz, Mrs. Peter Bauers and Mrs. James Chandanias left today for a two-week visit in St. Petersburg and Miami, Fla.

Escanaba—Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Shiner have returned from Chicago where Mr. Shiner has been attending a service school.

Powers—Harold Little has arrived from Stratford, Ont., to visit a week with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Little.

Twenty Years Ago

Escanaba—Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Reidy are the parents of a daughter.

Manistique—Mrs. Alma Millard of Unity, Saskatchewan, Can., has left to return after spending the weekend here with Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Baker. Mrs. Millard is the former Alma Stewart of this city. Gladstone—Mr. and Mrs. William Girard are the parents of a daughter, Geraldine Grace, born Jan. 13.

Cornell—Bert Stebbins, 36, suffered severe burns about the head and face Sunday afternoon when a gasoline tank on which he was soldering exploded. He was taken to St. Francis hospital for treatment.

Escanaba—Miss Lucille Hemminger, an instructor in the Norway public school system, spent the weekend here with her parents.

Gladstone — Miss Katherine Call, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. I. Call, has enrolled in Highland Park nurses training school in Detroit. Speaking in behalf of the Hannahville Indians, the Jesuit priest declared that if they were given help on Saturday nights when they have their pay check, the drinking might be reduced. But they are not helped, and when they go to town after groceries, many of them would come home sober—except that some white man is waiting for them to encourage them to drink. "And it is a part of the nature of the Indian that he cannot carry as much drink as some white men," said Father Prud'homme seriously.

ANOTHER SIDE—Suppose we consider for a moment the situation of another group of Indians—the Chipewas at Nahma in Delta county. The Indians at Nahma do not own the land on which they live, nor does the government own it and keep it in trust for them.

They are, in the majority, employed by the Bay de Noquet company in the woods or in the mill. In this way they are different than the Hannahville Indians, who are isolated and would have to travel considerable distances to find employment.

The Nahma Indians have all of the privileges and all of the responsibilities that accompany citizenship. So far as we can determine, many of them have been too frequently in trouble with the law, particularly on drunk and disorderly charges. Yet when they do have trouble in their "Indian town" the officers move in to enforce the law just as they would in any community.

Perhaps the Nahma and Hannahville Indian communities should not be compared. Yet comparison indicates the Hannahville Indians suffer most from their isolation, and the handicap of less frequent contact with whites.

Roving Reporter

By Hal Boyle

New York, (AP)—Once upon a time a country dog named Prince hiked into the city to visit his cousin, whom he found anchored by a leash to a fat lady sitting in a park.

At first Prince didn't recognize his natty cousin, who was wearing a strange garment.

"Oh, hello there, Prince," barked the city dog with all the enthusiasm anybody has in greeting a relative who needs a haircut.

"Howdy," said Prince, and then asked, "What's that around you?" "That's my new mink coat," said the city dog proudly. "Only ten dogs in all New York have one. It's to keep me warm."

"Well, if you ask me," said Prince with rural bluntness, "it looks like you'd been swallowed by a cat."

The city dog didn't like that and observed: "You look terribly shaggy, old boy. What are those things sticking all over you?"

"Cockleburs," said Prince. "I got them in the south pasture rounding up the cattle for the boss."

"Dear me, you mean you work for a living?" cried the city dog, truly horrified.

Just then the fat lady picked a morsel out of a box in her lap, held it out and said:

"Here, Chubbykins—Beg!"

The city dog ambled over, stood on his hind legs, held up his front paws—and the morsel plumped into his mouth. He sidled back shame-facedly to his cousin.

"She called you Chubbykins," said Prince. "Back home we always knew you as Stubby."

"Sh-h-h," said the city dog. "Don't bring up my past."

"What was that begging business about?" pressed Prince. "Is that your idea of earning a living?"

"Well, every dog has his way," said Chubbykins stoutly. "And besides she gave me a chocolate."

"What are you going to do with it?"

"Eat it, of course."

"Eat a chocolate?" growled Prince. No wonder you look like a balloon."

But the sight of his cousin's jaws working reminded the country dog he was hungry, too.

"Break away from that female mountain," he said, "and let's go catch a rabbit."

"What in the world would we do with a rabbit?"

"Eat it," said Prince.

"Eat?" asked Chubbykins uneasily.

"Are you kidding? Say, what's this soft life done to you, anyway, kid? You lost your muscle? Why our family's been bringing the bacon home for the human race for 10,000 years. Out where I live I'm still a partner to my boss. You'd better come on back with me."

"And sleep on an old blanket full of fleas?" sneered Chubbykins. "I'll bet you have a flea on your right now."

"Who hasn't?" shrugged Prince, and the city dog trotted to her, glad to get away. Prince looked thoughtfully at the mink-clad pair as they waddled off together.

"Civilization!" he said, scratching himself. "It shouldn't happen to a dog."

Moral: Everybody has a born right to own a mink coat but a mink.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON

Washington.—The distance from Trieste to Paris is about half the distance between New York and Chicago. But the trip by the fastest train—the

Pearson

Simplon-Orient Express—takes nearly twice as long. One reason is that so much time is wasted with red tape at the border of each country.

During the trip you are awakened no fewer than twelve different times by customs, passport and monetary inspectors wanting to look at your baggage, stamp your passport or check on the amount of money in your wallet.

Each time you are awakened you say to yourself: "Abraham Lincoln was certainly right."

In other words, if Lincoln hadn't made the difficult and momentous decision that the federal union must be preserved, travelers crossing the United States today probably would be showing passports at half a dozen state lines, and we would be suffering the same kind of headaches which have almost capsized Europe.

Realizing the importance of unity, Soviet Russia is now engaged in trying to weld Eastern Europe and the Balkans into one homogeneous unit—the only sensible way Europe can operate. In other words, the boys from Moscow are stealing our idea. If we are smart, we won't let them get away with it.

FORCE VS. PERSUASION

The Russians of course are trying to weld Europe together by force—ruthless force. Regrettably, Abraham Lincoln had to resort to force of arms. But there were many differences.

Most important, perhaps, was the fact that Lincoln was trying to preserve something already in existence, while the Russians are trying to create something which never before existed. And it's highly doubtful that by knocking people's heads together and by shooting peasant leaders who don't cooperate, you can make European nations work together for keeps in a United States of Europe.

What real success the Russians have had—and unquestionably they have had some—has been attained more by clever propaganda and sales arguments.

All of which is by way of saying that important as the Marshall Plan is, we have to go further and use it to build up first a United States of Western Europe, and later a United States of All Europe.

Bernie Baruch, testifying before the Senate foreign relations committee earlier this week, called it a political, economic and defense union. But regardless of the name, something like this must go hand-in-hand with the Marshall Plan as an integral part of it, if our money is to build up permanent peace.

HOW TO EXECUTE MARSHALL PLAN

Building up such a union is not going to be easy, but there are several ways of going at it. One of them is the actual execution of the Marshall Plan.

Personally, I share the anxiety of certain Republican senators that we have good business executives in charge of the Marshall Plan; and perhaps the most efficient way to build up Europe would be to tell the engineers of the Pennsylvania Railroad to go in and reconstruct the French railways, while the New York Central would get the job of revamping the Italian railways—and so on.

This, however, would play right into the hands of the Communists. It would give them a heaven-sent opportunity to scream that American big business was trying to get its hands on the throat of European economy. In the end such a plan would cause more political harm than economic good.

On the other hand, I suggested to one or two foreign ministers while in Europe that a pool of international experts to be set up under the Marshall Plan from which any member nation might draw in order to help rebuild its industries.

For instance, the automobile-factory pool would consist of experts from General Motors, Ford, Chrysler, Kaiser, Rolls-Royce in England;

Escanaba, Michigan.

Dear Mr. Editor:
Mr. David R. Jacobson in your paper of Thursday January 22 brings a brief reply to my communication of January 15. Apparently the writer is ready to accept the authority of the Bible as final in any issue touched upon in the Book. However, apparently he considers my quotation from this Book not applicable to the case in question, certainly not the present Russian government!

The quotation was from Romans Chapter 13. The author of this book was the inspired writer St. Paul. St. Paul wrote this book about the year 60 A. D. At this time Nero was the emperor of the Roman Empire. St. Paul was a Roman citizen. History hardly knows of any worse fiend than Emperor Nero! Just how many hundreds and thousands of Christians—and this for no other reason than that they were Christians—he coldbloodedly slaughtered no one will ever know! Yet the inspired writer of Romans Chapter 13 writes regarding this very government, of which Nero was the head at that time, "he is the servant of God."

Spirit Messages Seen by Bishop

Dr. Wilson questioned the advisability of seances, however. He asked:

"Is this dabbling in the occult permissible and healthy?"

Tickets For Ice Show On Sale In Six Cities

Reserved seat tickets for Escanaba's Ice Varieties of 1948, the outstanding ice show of the current season in Upper Michigan, are on sale at the Escanaba Chamber of Commerce, Gust Asps and the West End Drug Store and also in five other communities in the Upper Peninsula, it was announced yesterday.

Tickets are on sale in Manistique, Marquette, Iron Mountain, Trenary and Marinette. They may be purchased at the Chamber of Commerce office in Manistique, Marquette and Iron Mountain and at the Trenary Co-op store.

A full dress rehearsal is scheduled for next Sunday. All acts will be rehearsed, and lighting effects will be studied in order to make any necessary revisions before the show is presented. The Ice Varieties will be shown Feb. 5, 6, 7 and 8.

Only reserved seats are being sold in advance, the committee in charge pointed out. General admission and student tickets may be purchased at the gate. All arrangements have been completed for printing the ice revue program. It will go to press Monday. Lighting installations at the indoor rink also are complete.

Cuban Writes Song About Satira And Listeners Love It

Havana, Cuba (AP)—They are singing the story of the American dancer, Patricia (Satira) Schmidt, over the Cuban radio, and listeners love it. So do s Patricia.

The Toledo, O., girl, under sentence of 15 years imprisonment for slaying John Lester Mee of Chicago here last year, cried when she first heard the song, written by Felix Manuel Rodriguez, known as Bobby Capo.

"The music is perfectly lovely," Patricia said. "It has all the charm of the Latin music, and a tinge of the Oriental. And the words, of course, are beautiful."

The song refers to her variously as a "Beautiful Swallow" and a "Poor Little Dance," who "Some-day Will Dance Again." The chor-

WALLACE VOTE IS IMPORTANT

Third Party Candidate
Has Following In Pivotal States

BY ALEXANDER R. GEORGE
AP Newsfeature Writer

Washington—Henry Wallace could be the deciding factor in this year's presidential race even if he gets fewer votes than third party candidate William Lemke of North Dakota got in 1936.

It would depend, of course, on whether the contest between the Republican nominee and President Truman, the presumed Democratic nominee, is very close.

Lemke received 882,479 votes in 1936, but President Roosevelt's lead over Republican candidate Alfred M. Landon was so huge that the third party (Union party) vote had no bearing on the outcome.

A few hundred thousand votes for Wallace in a couple of states with large electoral votes could decide the winner of a tight Republican-Democratic race, although there will be no way of estimating exactly the number of votes Wallace "takes away" from the Democratic (or the Republican) candidate.

Presidential election victories have hinged on the vote in one state. In 1916 Woodrow Wilson nosed out Charles Evans Hughes by a margin of 23 electoral votes. If Hughes had carried California, traditionally a Republican state in those years, he would have won the presidency.

California's 25 electoral votes went to President Roosevelt in the last four elections. Wallace might pick up enough costomarily Democratic votes to put that state in the Republican column. Of course, the Republicans might win California by so large a margin the Wallace vote would not make any difference.

The 47 electoral votes of New York state are a big prize in most presidential contests: Grover Cleveland won the presidency in 1884 by carrying New York with a majority of slightly more than 1,000 votes in a total state vote of over 1,000,000.

In 1944 President Roosevelt topped Thomas Dewey in New York state by 316,014 votes.

Suppose Wallace gets 250,000, or even 150,000 New York votes next November and the Republican nominee leads President Truman by 100,000 in the state. It then would be said that the Wallace candidacy enabled the Republicans to win the state's 47 electoral votes. And that could be enough to capture the presidency.

In 1912 Theodore Roosevelt's battle with his former political pal president Taft, split the G.O.P. wide open and enabled Democratic nominee Woodrow Wilson to win the presidency. The combined Roosevelt and Taft vote was 7,609,942, more than four million of these going to Roosevelt.

Wilson's popular vote was 6,236,214, but he got 435 electoral votes compared to 88 for Teddy and eight for Taft.

In 1946, world consumption of cotton was 23.2 million bales, down about a fourth from the 1936 peak of 30.6 million bales in the face of a rising world population.

Early travelers to Japan reported that in trials for theft a piece of red-hot metal was placed in the hand of the accused, who then threw it away. If his hand was unburned, he was adjudged innocent.

RAILROAD HISTORY REPEATS

... Illinois' Gov. Green helps reenact charter signing 112 years ago this month which launched Chicago as nation's rail capital and ultimately provided link for 900 communities in Illinois, Wisconsin, Michigan, Iowa, Minnesota, the Dakotas, Nebraska and Wyoming. Charter gave birth to Galena & Chicago Union Railroad, forerunner of the Chicago and North Western Railway System, now celebrating its Centennial. Signing was re-enacted by governor and railway employees dressed in costumes of 1830's.

February Has Five Sundays for First Time in 28 Years

Washington (SS.)—For the first time in 28 years—and the second time in the twentieth century—there will be five Sundays in February.

This year February 29, that extra day added every four years to keep the months from shifting in to another season, will be on Sunday. The last time Leap Year Day came on Sunday was in 1920.

In 1944 the extra day inserted at the end of February was a Tuesday, at the beginning of the forties decade it was a Thursday, and in 1952 it will be a Friday.

Leap Year Day comes on the same day of the week every 28 years, as a rule. Our grandparents, however, had to wait 32 years for February 29 to fall twice on the same day—1900 was not a Leap Year.

For many centuries an extra day was added every fourth year. But less than 400 years ago a new rule was introduced—that of not having a Leap Year Day when the century years are not divisible by 400. Thus the year 2000 will be a leap year, but 2100 will not.

All of this difficulty of adding and not adding a February 29 to the calendar is caused by the fact that the solar year—which governs our seasons—actually consists of 365 days, five hours, 48 minutes and 46 seconds.

Recent reductions in the number of U. S. tenant farms have resulted from absorption of many small farms into larger operations and from the purchase of farms by former tenants who have prospered.

WRITER OF OLD SCHOOL IS DEAD

Ruark Remains Passing Of Doug Gilbert, Reporter

BY ROBERT C. RUARK
New York — Doug Gilbert wouldn't like it if you hung a sentimental column on his passing. Doug was a sentimental man who never admitted it publicly. He was getting pretty snappish, too, and was apt to bite you if you rubbed him from the wrong end.

Well, Doug's gone now. He died the other day, in one of the stylish Manhattan hotels, just after lunch. It was as good a way as any to do it—short and crisp, like one of Doug's sentences. He was a long time in the business, and he was sometimes sick and sad, but he always wrote them crisp.

Doug wasn't very well known outside of New York, nor did he crave a national reputation. He started out here as a reporter back in the teens of the century, and he was reporting for a living the day he died. A lot of men with less talent went a lot farther, if you count it in dough and fame. But Doug had a 30-year love affair with New York City, and he liked to stick around close and watch his sweetie.

Proud of His Profession
When Jimmy Walker died, Doug wrote a fine series on the Walker era for the World Telegram. One of his sentences said that "Walker wore New York like a flower in his buttonhole."

So did Doug Gilbert. They are always saying that so-and-so is among the last of a breed, but I believe it's true in Doug's case. He was one of the last reporters in the romantic tradition. He took a genuine pride in his profession, endowed himself with a sharply critical view of the world he lived in, and did himself become a legend in his own backyard.

He was not working for newspapers merely as a way-stop to Hollywood or a job with the big press agency. He wasn't using newspapers for eating money while he wedged the great American novel in between fires and mayhems. Being a top byline writer on a good paper in the biggest city in the world used to be all a man desired.

You know there was, once, a species of young man which thought a Metropolitan newspaper job was better work than the presidency of the United States. This odd breed got a tremendous boot out of hanging around speak-easies and browbeating cops and hobnobbing with politicians, artists, hoodlums and other celebrities.

These men were in nearly constant conflict with their city editors. They were given to outlandish pranks and spectacular sprees. But mostly they had zinc-lined stomachs and plausible mouths, plus the handy faculty of being able to handle any sort of writing job a little better than the next fellow. It kept them steadily em-

GENERAL TAKES UNSCHEDULED SLIGHTRIDE — One moment after this photo was made, Gen. Omar N. Bradley, Chief of Staff designate, was taken for an unscheduled sleigh ride when sled slipped down slope as he posed with kids at East Side House, a Community

Settlement in N.Y.C., while Tommy Gorsline, 9, sobbed, "I didn't get into the picture". So the Chief of Staff-designate soothed Tommy's tears, and the photographer did the rest. (NEA Telephoto) played, and got them forgiven for occasional boyish lapses.

They Knew Everybody
As they went steadily along the color of the town rubbed off on them. They got to know everybody. They became celebrities in the presence of an interview because a mutually appreciated event. When they wrote a piece they enriched the effort with a large helping of their own color.

Take Doug. There was a guy who knew more words than Webster. He felt about words like some guys feel about women and he was able to hate a man who used them carelessly or wrong. He was an expert on art, books, the theater, music. He had a tongue made out of razor blades, with a thousand polished stories on its tip.

Doug was a curator of the curious fauna which abounds in New York—actors, artists, writers, politicians and bums. Among the theatrical folk he was probably the most esteemed—personally—writing man in town. He was a charmer, when he wished, and an adder-tongued misanthrope when he wished.

But his fingers at the typewriter never staled. He had a small fling at radio, and a couple of cuts at book writing, but he always came back to being a reporter. There was a time when the reporter's job was open sesame to a gaudy, glittering pageant, uncomplicated by wages, hours and overtime. Doug Gilbert never recovered from his early awe at the wonder of it all.

FATHER BITES BABY

Prison Term Given To Madge Meredith In Kidnap-Assault

Los Angeles (AP)—Film actress Madge Meredith, her appeal for probation denied, was sentenced to from one year to 25 years in Tehachapi Women's Institution Thursday on her conviction of kidnapping and assault.

Miss Meredith displayed no emotion as sentence was pronounced by Superior Judge Charles W. Fricks. She had no statement for reporters.

She was convicted of engineering the kidnapping and beating of restaurateur Nick Gianacis, her former adviser, who claimed he was instrumental in getting her started on a film career.

A similar term in San Quentin prison was given Albert Tucker, her friend who allegedly carried out the plot.

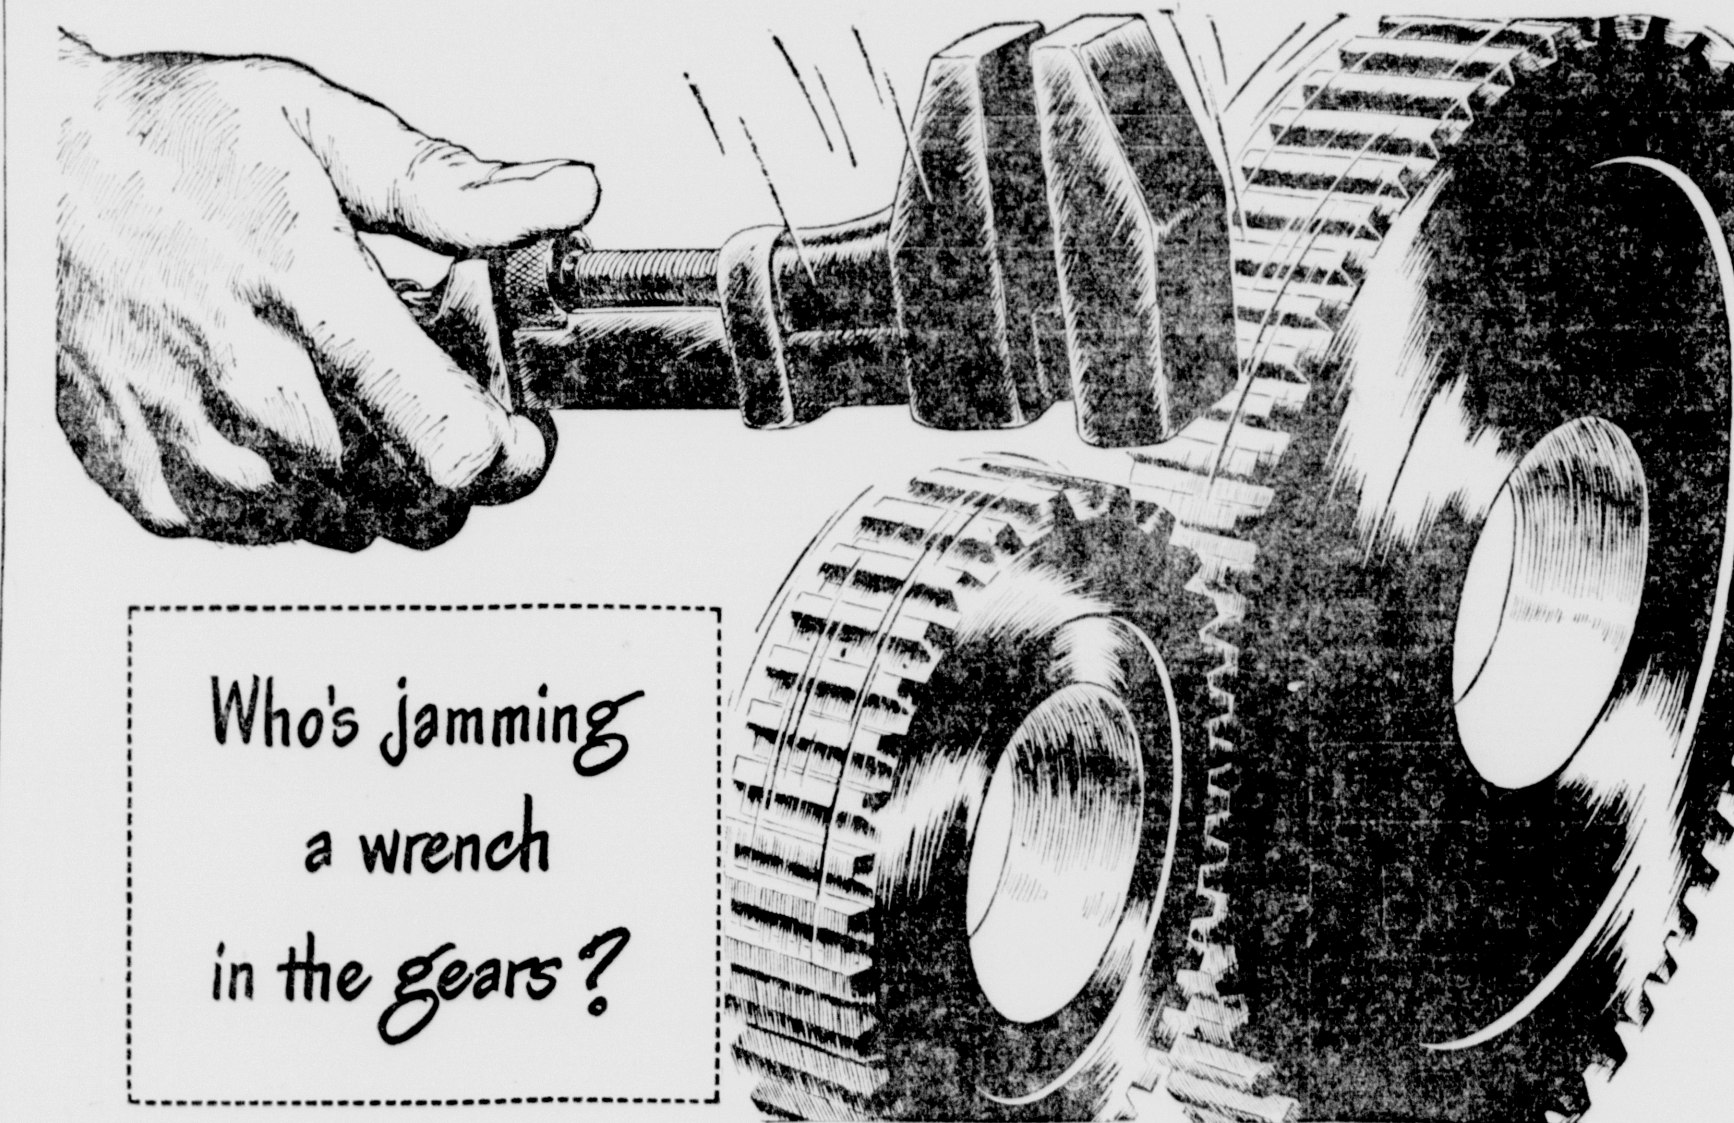

Damon Klinkenberg and James Hatfield, who also played roles in the kidnapping, were given 60 and 30-day county jail sentences respectively. Gianacis testified that he and Miss Meredith had quarreled, and that she lured him into the Hollywood Hills last June 30 where he and his bodyguard, Verne Davis, were set upon by the three men.

3 Unions Block Labor Peace—Refuse Wage Boost Already Accepted by 19 Other Railroad Unions!

The Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers and the Switchmen's Union of North America, representing 125,000 railroad employees, have refused to accept the offer of the Railroads of a wage increase of 15 1/2 cents an hour.

This is the same increase awarded 1,000,000 non-operating employees by an arbitration board in September, 1947.

This is the same increase accepted by 175,000 conductors, trainmen and switchmen by agreement on November 14, 1947.

Agreements have been made with 1,175,000 employees, represented by nineteen unions. But these three unions, representing only 125,000 men, are trying to get more. They are demanding also many new working rules not embraced in the settlement with the conductors and trainmen.

Incidentally, the Switchmen's Union of North America represents only about 7 per cent of all railroad switchmen, the other 93 per cent being represented by the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen and covered by the settlement with that union.

Strike Threat
The leaders of these three unions spread a strike ballot while negotiations were still in progress. This is not a secret vote but is taken by union leaders and votes are signed by the employees in the presence of union representatives.

When direct negotiations failed, the leaders of these three unions refused to join the railroads in asking the National Mediation Board to attempt to settle the dispute, but the Board took jurisdiction at the request of the carriers and has been earnestly attempting since November 24, 1947, to bring about a settlement. The Board on January 15, 1948, announced its inability to reach a mediation settlement. The leaders of the unions rejected the request of the Mediation Board to arbitrate. The railroads accepted.

What Now?
The Unions having refused to arbitrate,

Alida Jacobson
Among Prominent
Green Bay Women

By RUTH EILER

Green Bay, Wis.—Slight, pleasant and well-equipped for her position are the adjectives describing the woman of the day, Miss Alida M. Jacobson. Administrator of the Bellin Memorial hospital is her well-earned title.

Miss Jacobson is responsible to the Board of Directors of Bellin hospital for the management of the hospital, including all the departments, such as the school of nursing, engineering department, housekeeping and laundry departments, and the dietary department.

Born in Bark River, Mich., she obtained most of her administrative experience in her home hospital, the Swedish hospital school of nursing in Minneapolis, Minn. She entered this hospital in 1918, where she did a great deal of apprentice work during summers, vacations, and emergencies, relieving in various departments.

Helped In Flu Epidemic
Miss Jacobson played an important role in the flu epidemic of 1918-19. During that time she was in charge of the Red Cross Emergency hospital in Fort Pierre, S. D. She said that the 16-bed hospital was completely filled for two months with flu victims and during that time only two patients died.

She has worked in hospitals throughout the country. At the Huron, S. D. hospital, she was superintendent of nurses. For five and a half years she was superintendent of nurses and acting superintendent of the Methodist hospital in Omaha, Neb. From there Miss Jacobson came to the Bellin Memorial hospital here, where she has been administrator since December, 1933.

Second only to her hospital work is her enthusiasm for collecting stamps. Miss Jacobson owns a collection of American stamps and an unusual collection of Red Cross stamps of the world.

As far as sports go, she is an avid golf fan and likes to play the game herself. Classical music is her favorite. She also enjoys trying out new recipes.

Clubs Claim Much Time

Miss Jacobson finds time to belong to many clubs, both professional and social. She is a member of the American Nurses' association, the American College of Hospital Administrators, and the Wisconsin and American Hospital association. Not to be outdone by her professional club membership, Green Bay clubs claim much of her time. She is a past president and member of the Altrusa club, also a charter member of the same club. Due to her interest in philately, she is a member of the Green Bay Philatelic society, of which she is vice president. A lover of out-of-doors, Miss Jacobson is also a member of the Green Bay Bird club.

To more fully equip herself for her important position, Miss Jacobson has taken several short institute courses sponsored by the American College of Hospital Administrators. She completed these courses in the Minneapolis Study center, Chicago university, and Purdue university.

Miss Jacobson has three brothers, Iver, Joel, and Henning, all of Minneapolis. Her 35-year-old mother also lives in Minneapolis.

Plans Trip

A much envied two months trip throughout the Scandinavian countries has been planned by Miss Jacobson and two friends, Eva Flebstrom and Ellen Gunderson, from Escanaba. They will leave June 18, sailing on the Gripsholm and will return from Sweden Aug. 14 on the Stockholm. It isn't a business trip either, she just plans to get away from it all during her visit.

County Nurses
Plan To Form
Separate Unit

Tentative plans for organization of a Delta county district nurses' association, as a distinct unit of the Michigan State Nurses' Center were made at a meeting of nurses of the district held last night at the home of Miss Hilma Askainen.

The group, at the meeting, voted to become a member of the State Nurses' Center.

Officers are: Miss Askainen, president; Mrs. Catherine Nichols, secretary-treasurer; Mrs. Louise Berglund, program chairman; Mrs. Dorothy Boyle, chairman of constitution and by-laws; Mrs. Cora Pelletier, membership chairman, and Mrs. Alma Christensen, publicity chairman.

It was pointed out that there are 30 nurses in the Delta county district and a county organization will function more efficiently than a tri-county group.

At the next meeting of the nurses, to be held at the Health Department office in February, with Miss Hulda Edmon, state executive secretary, in attendance, organization of the unit will be completed. The date of the meeting will be announced later.

With Officials Now
On U. P. Tour

A resolution favoring universal military training was adopted by county Legionnaires assembled here Wednesday evening to greet the heads of Michigan units on their annual mid-winter tour. A dinner was served by the Auxiliary in the Legion hall.

Copies of the resolution will be forwarded to Senators Vandenberg and Ferguson.

Principal speakers on the after-dinner program were Michigan Commander Arthur H. Clarke and Mrs. Odile Miller, Michigan Auxiliary president.

In his talk Commander Clarke stresses the six points in the Legion program: namely, assistance for disabled veterans and their families, youth activity programs, community service, support of national defense legislation and of universal military training and combating of subversive activities.

Mrs. Miller explained the auxiliary program, told the scope of work in Michigan's veterans' hospitals and lauded Mrs. Germaine Hillewaert for her part in bringing the local post to second place in the state.

In the touring party are Commander Clarke, President Miller, Adj. Alexander, Harvey Quick, department vice commander; George Beaudoin, U. P. Adjutant; Herbert Spaine, assistant state service officer; Ralph Olson, field service officer; C. Elmer Olson, 11th district committeeman, and Miss Gertrude Grandchamp, 11th district auxiliary president.

Tom Beaton, Escanaba, formerly of Gladstone, a candidate for the state commander post, was introduced.

The tour continued to Manistique Thursday. It will wind up at Hancock the latter part of the month where the annual mid-winter conference is to be held.

IS ANNOUNCEDWill Be Memorial To
Former Residents
Of City

Announcement was made this week of the establishment of the Lazarus and Rachel Rosenthal scholarships which will provide, each year, a freshman scholarship at the University of Michigan for the outstanding senior of Manistique high school.

The scholarships have been established by Samuel R. Rosenthal, prominent Chicago attorney and native of Manistique, to honor the memory of his parents who lived many years in this city and were active in its civic affairs.

Beginning with the class of 1948, the outstanding senior will be selected for the scholarship by a committee made up of local members of the faculty and one person to be appointed by Mr. Rosenthal. The selection will be based on (1) scholarship, (2) financial need, (3) personality and leadership. Mr. Rosenthal's endowment stated that "in considering personality and leadership qualifications, the student's record shall demonstrate his or her adherence to and belief in the principles of American democracy and in the universal application of these principles without regard to race, creed, color or national origin."

As set up in the endowment, the Lazarus and Rachel Rosenthal Scholarships will be awarded for the next five years. However, Mr. Rosenthal has expressed the hope that the scholarships may be continued indefinitely, if the five-year experience demonstrates the desirability and usefulness of the plan.

Lazarus and Rachel Rosenthal, in whose memory these scholarships are being made came to Manistique in the late 1890's where Mr. Rosenthal established a dry goods and clothing business which he conducted until his retirement in 1926. The business continues today as Lauerman's department store. The Rosenthals during their long residence here, were active in local educational, civic and philanthropic work.

Samuel R. Rosenthal, the son who has established these scholarships as a memorial to his parents, is a graduate of Manistique high school and of the University of Michigan. He is at present a member of a prominent Chicago law firm.

Mr. Rosenthal states that though the plan contemplates a scholarship for five years it is his hope to continue them for an indefinite period.

WM. RODMAN
PASSES AWAYFuneral Services Will Be Held Monday
Morning

William Rodman, 63, a resident of the Trenchy district for many years, died at his home Thursday morning following a several months illness. Funeral services will be held Monday morning at 8 o'clock, at the St. Francis de Sales Catholic church with the Rev. Fr. B. J. P. Schevers officiating. Burial will be in Fairview cemetery.

Mr. Rodman was born in Austria on January 17, 1885 and came to this country in 1900, settling in Manistique. For about 15 years he was employed at the Charcoal Iron plant and later engaged in farming. He was married on Sept. 21, 1903 at Escanaba to Miss Mary Stire, who survives him.

Also surviving him are four sons, George, William R., Rudolph and Joseph, all of Manistique, four daughters, Mrs. Mary Bosnic, Mrs. Anna Schultz and Mrs. Ronice Lehman, of Manistique, and Mrs. Barbara Jenks, Detroit; two brothers, George and Marco, of Escanaba; 27 grandchildren, 2 great grandchildren.

Friends may call at the Morton Funeral home where the body is lying in state.

Supervisors Ask
For Pan Fish
Hatchery In UP

Reviewing the work of various county governmental departments as shown by the annual reports submitted by those in charge of the two-day meeting of the Schoolcraft county board of supervisors which completed its deliberations Wednesday evening.

Among the reports submitted were those of the Welfare Committee, the county agricultural agent, the county road commission, and the county board of health, all of which reports were approved.

Among other matters acted upon was the passage of a resolution asking an increase in the state subsidy for care of patients receiving treatment in tuberculosis sanatoriums. The supervisors recognized the need for this treatment and praised the work done by the sanatoriums but claimed that the charges against the county for this service, which has increased substantially of late, is becoming a heavy burden to the county.

The supervisors passed unanimously a resolution presented by Walter Burns requesting that a hatchery for the rearing of pan fish be built in the Upper Peninsula.

The supervisors voted to send the chairman of the board and four supervisors to the coming state convention of county supervisors.

Local Ski Club
Launches Active
Booster Drive

A booster campaign will be launched this week to help toward promoting the annual jumping meet of the Manistique Ski Club scheduled for Sunday, Feb. 1. Membership buttons will be sold to the public which will entitle the purchaser admission to the big event. The admission fee will be the same as last season, but the prospective purchaser may give over and above any amount he deems worthy of this Manistique winter sports spectacle. A thorough canvas of the city and county will be made and several civic organizations have indicated their desire to help in this respect. The Ski Club is working hard in an effort to make this meet an affair which the city may well be proud of and the outcome of this drive will greatly reflect upon its success.

The deadline on entries will be this weekend and a complete list of the jumpers participating will be published in several days. According to indications a lot of outstanding riders from the Central Ski Association will compete. Chairmen of the various tournament committees have been named by R. J. Fagan, president of the Ski Club. They are as follows: Grounds, R. G. Hentschell; Gate, H. M. Groff; Emery Barnes; Parking, Walter Nelson; Program, Leonard Harbick; Publicity, Paul Vezina; Public Address, Richard Wille; Registration, Leonard Mulhaupt; Banquet, John Kelly; Hill Captain, George Rubick; Markers, Tim Reuge; Housing, John Weber; Flagman, Ellsworth Larsen.

LEGION HEAD
VISITS HEREStrongly Urges Legion
Favor Universal
Training

Although the American Legion is calling upon its posts throughout the country to carry on a program so widely varied that many of them cannot give their time to all phases, there are five basic programs which every post must carry out. A. H. Clarke, South Haven, state commander of the American Legion told a gathering of Legionnaires and Auxiliary members here at a dinner meeting Thursday.

These programs, while not listed in their relative importance must not be slighted under any circumstance, Commander Clarke stated. They are:

First—Care of disabled veterans, veterans widows and children.

Second—Community service. Every Legion post should be a member of its local chamber of commerce or similar community service organization. And not only be a member, but be an important working unit in that organization.

Third—Youth Activity. The Legion should go the limit in the sponsorship of Junior baseball, Sons of the Legion, Boy Scouts. Oratorical contests and granting of scholarships to worthy students.

Fourth—Combat Subversive Activity. Part of the Legion pledge calls for the support of the constitution of the United States. The Legion is expected to defend the constitution and to work against any ism tending to weaken our national government.

Fifth—National Defense. Every post should have an active defense program and where there are organizations such as the national guard in the community the Legion should give them every encouragement.

Commander Clarke was most emphatic in urging a universal military training program and at his suggestion messages were sent Senators Vandenberg and Ferguson urging that they support this legislation which will soon come up for a showdown. He stated that it was unnecessary to send a message to Congressmen Charles E. Potter because the local congressman "is not afraid to stand up and be counted." He favors universal military training, said the commander.

Commander Clarke and party visited here as one of their stopping points on their mid-winter tour of the Upper Peninsula. In the party were the commander's wife, Mrs. O. Miller, president of the American Legion Auxiliary

Condition Of
Ernest Derwin
Still CriticalJail Inspector Upholds
Fire Marshal Who
Condemned Place

The condition of Ernest Derwin, conservation officer for this district, who was injured in a motor accident Thursday morning, still remains critical.

The nature of his injuries have not as yet been fully determined because he is still too badly hurt to be moved. A severe head and chest injury are readily apparent but it is also feared that he may be suffering internally as well.

Harold Rogers is also receiving treatment at the Shaw hospital, but his injuries are not regarded as serious.

Robert Thorrell and Don Schuetter, both of Manistique, occupants of the other car, although badly hurt, are ambulant and are at their homes. Thorrell suffered a broken collar bone, cuts and contusions and Schuetter suffered broken ribs.

This accident, which happened about eight miles east of here, occurred when Derwin, driving west, following a snow plow going in the same direction attempted to pass, and crashed almost head-on into the car driven by Schuetter.

Derwin, who has been acting as conservation officer since the death of the late Tom Mellon, who was drowned last fall in an accident on the Manistique river, was confirmed as local officer a few days ago and was on his way to take over his duties when the mishap occurred.

Department of Michigan, Mrs. Stella Rahm, district Auxiliary president; Lisle Alexander, department adjutant; C. Elmer Olson, district committeeman; Harvey Quick, district commander.

At the dinner meeting, which was held at the New Paul Bunyan Camp, Fred H. Hahn, president of the Manistique Legion, acted as toastmaster and Leonard Mulhaupt, acting in the absence of Mayor William Perger, welcomed the visitors.

DECLARE JAIL
FIRE HAZARDJail Inspector Upholds
Fire Marshal Who
Condemned Place

Schoolcraft county may shortly be required to build a new county jail to replace the old one which has been declared by the state fire marshal to be a fire trap.

The Schoolcraft county board of supervisors were confronted with this problem at their regular meeting this week. While no demand for a new jail was made, a letter from Robert F. Schumacher, state inspector of jails, in a letter to Len Carley, former chairman of the county board, and County Clerk G. Leslie Bouschor, stated that he inspected the local jail on October 23 and concurs with an opinion by the state fire marshal, who inspected the building on September 2, that the jail constitutes "a decided fire hazard and orders that the same be discontinued."

The jail inspector stated that he did not know if the fire marshal would carry out his order immediately, but he did agree that it would be nearly impossible to save prisoners in certain blocks of cells should a serious fire break out.

On the other hand, the jail inspector, went at length in the letter to praise Sheriff Howard Hewitt for the paintup and cleanup job he has done to the building to make it clean and sanitary. The change, he said, "was decidedly for the better."

The supervisors took no official action at this time.

More Than 50 Scrappers Ready For Golden Gloves Tournament Here Next Monday And Tuesday

BADGERS PLAY ILLINOIS FIVE

First Of Four Straight Road Tilts For Big Nine Leaders

Chicago, Jan. 23 (P)—Wisconsin's league-leading Badgers, who spoiled Illinois' Western Conference debut at Madison on Jan. 3, will pay the Illinois a return visit tomorrow in the feature attraction of a three-game Big Nine basketball card.

The Badgers, who have won five of their conference contests, trimmed Illinois 52 to 47 at Madison, snapping a seven-game winning streak for Coach Harry Combs' cagers. The Illini, with a 3-2 league record, are itching for their second crack at the Badgers at Champaign.

Other games tomorrow match Ohio State (1-3) and Purdue (2-2) at Lafayette, Ind., and Minnesota (2-2) and Indiana (1-4) at Bloomington.

Wisconsin, gunning for its second straight Big Nine title, will play its next four conference games away from home and must at least break even to stay in the title race. The Badgers' only defeat—a 43 to 39 decision scored by Michigan—was on their home floor.

Capt. Jack Burmaster, Illinois guard, will have the task of stopping the Badgers, leading scorer, Bob Cook, tomorrow. He held Cook to six points at Madison, but he omitted five personal fouls within five minutes of the second half. Then Cook dropped in 16 points and Wisconsin won going away.

ARCHER'S LUCK

Sports Editor
Escanaba Press
Dear Sir:

Now that archery season has passed into oblivion one doesn't hear much about any of the Escanaba archers. There was a rumor of Gladstone starting an "Archer's Club" and if that news is authentic it will be a good incentive for competition and better shooting.

Right now some of Escanaba's archers are busy reconstructing their old bows. One archer, dubbed "Dead Eye" by his fellow archers, hates to throw any of his old bows away. He has become attached to them in a loving way. The other day he hit upon the idea of bracing the backs of them with deer leg stencils.

Well, sir, everybody was real generous in giving him all kinds of deer legs 'til finally he had them stacked like cordwood. His wife couldn't figure out what he was up to. She thought he was trying to start a glue factory.

When he finally got his old bow back into shape—shooting champs along came "Telephone Johnson" with the current idea of sending for a new Stag Magnesium bow. They cost twenty-seven fifty with a case and are fast, exceptionally cast, extremely smooth shooters and have a constant in all weather.

Well, as "Dead Eye" didn't want to be outwitted by any fellow archer he wanted a magnesium bow, too, so he asked his wife's opinion on the matter. Naturally she checked in favor of it because that would eliminate "Dead Eye" from using her kitchen for the heating of a new bow out of the traditional sage orange stick as he was accustomed to doing. Another thing if "Dead Eye" bought the new magnesium bow, then she knew his heart would soften up and he'd probably tell her to go buy the prettiest she could find.

Hoping to promote better archery, I am,

Yours respectfully,
MRS. DOROTHY SPADE,
1405 Lake Shore Dr., City.

Mike Wants to Bow Out With Joe Louis

New York, Jan. 23 (P)—News that Promoter Mike Jacobs plans to "retire from boxing forever" coming on the heels of the verbal eruptions at the New York Boxing Writers dinner, kept boxing circles in a dither today.

Uncle Mike, who has been in semi-retirement since he suffered a stroke in the Fall of 1946, announced at Miami Beach, Fla. yesterday that he planned to retire for good after the return Joe Louis-Jersey Joe Walcott heavy-weight title bout in June.

"Joe and I are going to bow out together," Jacobs asserted referring to Louis' previous statement that his next title defense would be his last. Jacobs has dominated the sport since he promoted his first bout 15 years ago. There was immediate speculation as to the future of boxing in Madison Square Garden.

ESCANABA DAILY PRESS SPORTS

"It Seems To Me"

BY JIM WARD

In case you're wondering what's wrong with the Newberry Paul Bunyans in the Upper Michigan Amateur Hockey league, listen to Manager J. A. Morrison's tale of woe:

"Two of my best players joined the Army. Another was injured and has quit playing—at least for this season. And another broke a bone in his foot and will be out for some time, if not the rest of the season."

That accounts for such dismal scores as Newberry's 16-3 loss to Marquette in Marquette Tuesday night. As it stacks up now, Marquette is the class of the league, Escanaba and Gladstone a tossup for second, Newberry a weak fourth and the Hawks capable of beating Marquette—as they almost did here last Sunday.

That fellow giving forth with an anticipatory chuckle in Munising Tuesday night was Coach Eldon Keil as he contemplated having lanky Larry LaPlante on the Gladstone varsity basketball team next season to replace one of the graduating Braves.

In the preliminary to Gladstone's 31-28 victory over Munising, LaPlante led the junior varsity Brave quintet to a 37-20 triumph by scoring 22 points by himself. Can you blame "Cappy" for wringing his hands with glee? As a matter of fact, LaPlante may find himself on the varsity before the current season is over.

"I still hope to sign Johnny Lujack," said Chicago Bears' Coach George Halas after postponing the "big contract party" promised the people of Chicago by a certain Chicago newspaper that calls itself the "World's Greatest." "No definite settlement has been reached," Halas added.

In a copyright story, the Chicago Tribune claimed that Lujack had signed with Halas two weeks ago to a three-year contract calling for $18,000 a season plus a $5,000 signing bonus. But Halas says no!

Rapid River plays Hermansville Friday night. That may not exactly roll you in the aisles, but it was Rapid River who knocked off Hermansville under identical circumstances last year and let Perkins in to win the Central U. P. D-E Basketball league championship.

The River cagers would like to do it again. As it stands now, Hermansville is in first place with a measly three victories and no losses. Perkins, the defending champion, has been knocking itself out, by contrast, playing anybody and everybody in the league. Its record is 10 triumphs and one loss. If Rapid River succeeds in beating Hermansville Friday night—a pretty rough assignment—Perkins will be in again.

St. Joe plays at Felch tonight and St. Paul's of Negaunee plays St. Joe in the William Bonitas gym here Sunday afternoon. The latter game will be a renewal of the finals of the U. P. parochial school basketball tourney in Marquette when the Trojans tipped the Negauneeans.

Gene Short, Marquette sports historian, fluffed the dust off one of his record books the other day and came up with an item about Jack Hammerberg, Crystal Falls, and Bill Doyle, Marquette, roommates at the University of Michigan who become eligible for the varsity basketball sound Feb. 1. If they make it, there will be three U. P. athletes on the Wolverine cage squad, Trautnick's Bill Mikulich being the third.

Short reports that Doyle was a member of Marquette's 1944-45 U. P. "B" championship team and scored 264 points that season for an all-time Marquette high and Hammerberg holds the all-time Crystal Falls scoring record of 226 points in 17 games in the 1944-45 season.

Johnny Lujack, Charles R. Sligh, Jr., water skiing expert whose troupe thrilled large crowds at Escanaba's Hiawathaland Festival last July, is a business man of renown. Named "man of the year" last summer by the American Furniture Mart of Chicago, Sligh heads the Grand Rapids chair company, the Charles R. Sligh company of Holland, the Sligh-Lowry Furniture company of Zeeland and is past president of Holland Chamber of Commerce.

He recently was named a director of the Michigan Trust company.

Bob Feller Signs; Will Make At Least $87,000

Cleveland, Jan. 22 (P)—Bob Feller started house-hunting today after signing a 1948 contract which Cleveland Indians President Bill Veeck maintained would continue him as baseball's highest-paid performer.

As usual, terms of the agreement were not announced, but Veeck said the strikeout king could make as much as last year's $87,000, and added that "with a phenomenal year he can make a couple of dollars more."

The Tribe president described a "phenomenal year" as a season that would draw about 1,750,000 cash customers. Feller's base pay is to remain "about the same," a figure estimated at $40,000, but his bonuses are to begin at a higher attendance mark and cover a wider scale of total paid admissions.

Last year he more than doubled his base pay with bonus money that began at 750,000 and ended at 1,250,000 paid admissions. The Indians drew a total home paid attendance of 1,521,978 last year.

Veeck did not disclose at what attendance Feller would be expected to draw, but it was believed to be 900,000. The maximum attendance figure at which the ace hurler would reap profits was estimated at 1,750,000.

Today a year ago—National Football League gives Commissioner Bert Bell dictatorial powers designed to crush gambling.

Three years ago—Alan Ford, Yale swimming captain sets three sprint marks in meet at New Haven.

Five years ago—St. Louis Browns announce they will train at Cape Girardeau, Mo.

Ten years ago—Jimmy Thompson's 64, seven under par, gave him third round lead in Pasadena Open Golf tournament with 54-hole mark of 206.

In sharp contrast to the first postwar U. S. Golden Gloves tournament in 1946 when only 25 amateur boxers participated, the 1948 Golden Gloves to be held next Monday and Tuesday will have more than 50 entries. Last year 40 boys competed in the tournament at Escanaba.

Manistique has announced that its entry list will include 17 boys, which may make the Manistique contingent the largest in the tournament. Marinette has indicated that it will send at least 14 boys to Escanaba. Eight to ten are expected from Sault Ste. Marie.

Rock will have three boys in the competition, Skandia one, and Escanaba's entry list, which includes two Gladstone boys attached to the local training stable, will be 12 to 15.

For the first time in years, Iron Mountain probably will not have an entry in the tournament because of inability to secure training facilities for the Iron Mountain leather pushers.

All of the details of the tournament have been cleared away. The Escanaba Lions club committees will swing into action Sunday morning when the ring committee erects the ring at the junior high school at 10. The seating committee will install the bleachers and chair seats Sunday afternoon.

Approximately 1700 fans can be accommodated for each night of the tournament and capacity crowds are probable. Reserved seats are on sale at Gust Asp's and Chet Johnson's tavern in Escanaba.

Local boxers will report at the junior high school gymnasium at 3 Monday afternoon for weigh in and physical examinations and out of town competitors will report at 4 p. m. It is hoped to complete the examinations early so that pairings can be completed by no later than 5:30 p. m.

The boxers will report back to the gymnasium at 6:30 and arrangements are being made to tape all competitors in advance of the first bout at 8 o'clock. This procedure will eliminate delays between bouts as fast timing will be required to dispatch the 20 or more bouts on opening night.

Packers Match $10,000 Offer To Jug Girard

Marinette, Jan. 23.—Mrs. Ann Girard said today the Green Bay Packers had agreed to match a $10,000 offer made by the New York Yankees to her son, Earl (Jug) Girard, to sign a professional football contract.

Mrs. Girard said Coach E. L. (Curly) Lambeau of the Packers had telephoned the former University of Wisconsin halfback last night and agreed to pay the higher figure.

Girard signed a Packers contract about 10 days ago for a reported $8,000, but won't be 21 until Sunday and Mrs. Girard has refused to countersign the document. The star's father is not living.

Mrs. Girard reported yesterday that the Yankees had offered Girard $10,000 to play football and a baseball contract. The Yankee management controls both the All-America Conference football team and the American league baseball club. Young Girard is an infielder in baseball.

"Jug is supposed to call Mr. Lambeau at his home in California tonight," Mrs. Girard said. "He also is to be contacted later today by a representative of the Yankees."

"I don't know which contract he'll sign on his birthday Sunday. It's entirely up to him and he has to make up his own mind."

OLYMPIC PUCK FEUD STILL ON

Brundage Won't Give In An Inch To The AHA

Aboard the Queen Mary En Route to England, by Telephone to London, Jan. 23 (P)—Hopes of settling the United States' Olympic hockey controversy appear no brighter after a conference of the two central figures in the dispute—Avery Brundage and Walter Brown.

Brundage, president of the U. S. Olympic committee, and Brown, vice president of the Amateur Hockey Association, talked the matter over aboard ship yesterday.

Brundage said afterwards the two-hour session was "amicable," but added he thought a solution was impossible.

The AHA team has been recognized as the official U. S. entry in the winter games by the Swiss Olympic organizing committee and the International Hockey Federation. The U. S. Olympic committee has sent across another team and has threatened to withdraw completely from the games if the AHA aggregation is permitted to compete.

"Unfortunately this has gotten beyond a mere hockey controversy," Brundage stated after his conference with Brown. "It is a challenge against the organization of the Olympic games themselves."

Brundage said he told Brundage he (Brundage) had "some fellows on his hockey team who could not take the Olympic oath, not as we see it anyway." Previously the AHA executive had declared every member of his squad could take the oath.

The case will be laid before the executive committee of the International Olympic Committee next week at St. Moritz, Switzerland, where the games will open Jan. 30.

In New York, Thomas F. Leckhart, president of the AHA, said three members of the U. S. Olympic committee team previously played with the AHA.

Leckhart listed the three men as George Donahue, Bill Briell, formerly with the Jamaica Hawks of the AHA, and Allen Van, once a member of the Berman's Club in Minneapolis.

"I wonder how Avery Brundage of the U. S. Olympic committee distinguishes between our AHA players and the AHA players on his team," he asked.

Eskymos, Hematites Tangle Here; Trojans Go To Felch

Lanier, Owen May Be Forgiven

New York, Jan. 23 (P)—Walter W. Mulbry, assistant to Baseball Commissioner A. B. Chandler, is combining a Mexican vacation with business and on the outcome of the latter venture hinges the possible return to organized baseball of such former major league stars as Max Lanier, Mickey Owen and Luis Olmo.

Mulbry, acting as the official representative of George M. Trautman, president of the National Association of Professional Baseball Clubs (the minors) stopped off in Mexico City and conferred with Alejandro Aguilar Reyes, commissioner of the outlawed Mexican league earlier this week.

While the Escanaba Eskymos attempt to get back into the win column against a powerful Ishpeming Hematite aggregation in the junior high gym tonight, the St. Joe Trojans will travel to Felch in quest of their ninth victory of the season.

Some indication that the Trojans are in for an interesting evening is seen in Felch's 66-34 triumph over Channing Tuesday night and the fact that Felch will have the advantage of playing on its own floor.

Sixty-six points are a lot of points to pile up—even against five wooden Indians—a factor which has had Coach Fred Body priming his defense for an apparently varied Felch offense.

Eight Felch cagers wished the netting in the Channing encounter, and six of them got at least three baskets. Top man was Krueger with 11 points.

Boddy expected to start capable Jack Miron, who went on a scoring rampage against Channing Tuesday night, and Ed Henriksen, Ozzie Viaw, Gerald Harris and Gerald Giech.

Meanwhile, the Eskymos pointed toward a strong Ishpeming quintet that forced undefeated Marquette into an overtime period before bowing out, 45-41. Coach Jim Rouman indicated he might start the following combination: Dick Lough, Jim Deane, Warren Gustafson, Ray Hinn and Ron Johnson with Gary Abrahamson, Harold Pearson, Harold O'Connell, Dick Fryal and Don Carlson standing by.

Ishpeming Mentor C. C. Watson probably will start J. Marietti and Hendrickson at forwards, Roy Goethe at center, Carlson and Corcoran at guards, with G. Marietti, Doney and Pierto standing by for utility duty.

The game in the junior high gym tonight will be the first in which two new electric scoreboards will be used—a matter which will meet with considerable favor on the part of the spectators, who have patiently awaited this innovation, meanwhile straining their necks and smiling apathetically while the timekeeper fidgeted with the keys.

The two scoreboards are synchronized, and in contrast to the old setup, the timekeeper will be able to see the scoreboard to doublecheck his manipulation of the keys. It is expected to be a big improvement.

Coach Rouman looks for a big improvement on the part of his Eskymos, also, who absorbed a 42-32 loss to the Menominee Maroons in Menominee last Saturday.

The junior high will play the senior high reserves at 7. The main game will start at 8:30. Leo Brunelle, Harris, and Fred Vescolani, Carney, will officiate.

FOOTBALL FOR FUN
Atlanta, Jan. 23 (P)—Reactions, mostly favorable, were registered today to the theory advanced by Florida State university that intercollegiate games, including football, might be played for fun.

than offset Cooks 13-point tally. Norden topped the scorers with 19 points.

In preliminaries, the Rock girls beat Cooks girls, 37-20, and the Rock reserves topped Cooks reserves, 30-15. In other words, it was an all-Rock night.

'Stique Merchants Plan Return Match With Gladstone '5

Manistique, Jan. 23—Saturday the Manistique Merchants will again play the Gladstone Legion. This is the second time this year they will have met. The first game was played at Gladstone and the Merchants had a hard time beating them. It was a close game up until the last quarter when the Merchants made 25 points and allowed them only six points for the second half.

The Merchants will be without the services of John Noe and John Hartman, who are both under the doctor's care.

The Merchants will be after their seventh straight victory and so far this season they haven't been beaten by any team except a traveling colored team.

In the preliminary the K-C's of Manistique will play the Garden city team.

At the senior high, Jim Holt hit 10 to lead City Drug to a 29-17 victory over Harnischfeger, and Ed Kulik hit 12 to lead Cloverland college to a 38-18 triumph over Harris.

The Liberty Clowns almost upset the Gladstone Lions last night but lost out, 30-28. Anderson hit 12, Gordon Schils eight and John Hinn eight.

Officials were Don McKie, Ed Gauthier and Bob Anderson.

GENERAL DOES NOT WANT TO BE PRESIDENT

1948 Republican nomination for many months.

Only this week members of the Republican national committee meeting here had many huddles over the so-called Eisenhower threat.

In another political development, the CIO split politically over Henry Wallace's third party bid for the presidency.

The executive board of the labor organization which gave solid support to help elect the late President Roosevelt to a fourth term in 1944 voted 33 to 11 to reject Wallace's entry into the 1948 campaign as "politically unwise."

And the dissident group, representing about 1,250,000 of the organization's claimed 6,000,000 membership, gave every indication of plugging for Wallace anyway.

Harry Bridges, president of the International Longshoremen's Union and leader of the so-called left-wing element which opposed the anti-Wallace resolution, told reporters the Democrats won't stand "the chance of a snowball in Hell" of electing President Truman in November.

Anale Trisecting Problem Solved Many Years Ago

Washington, (SS)—Despite the fact that it really is no problem, and has not been for more than a century, many people still labor over the ancient puzzle of trisecting the angle.

You have probably seen some of these reported solutions. If you have two lines on a piece of paper forming an angle, it is very easy to draw another line between them, which will divide the angle into two equal parts. This is the bisection of the angle, and it is done by drawing straight lines along a ruler and arcs with a compass.

Thousands of years ago the Greeks realized that this was possible. Then they tried, with the same straight edge and compass, to divide an angle into three equal parts, and found that it could not be done with such simple equipment.

However, other methods were found by which it could be accomplished. In some, special curves, not drawn by a compass, are used, marks are made on the straight edge, or, which amounts to the same thing, the compasses are held against the straight edge without marking it.

The problem posed by the Greeks was not merely trisecting an angle, but doing it rigorously—that is, without theoretical error—using only a ruler and compasses. More than a century ago, in 1837, P. L. Wantzel proved that it is not possible to trisect an angle with these tools under the terms of the ancient problem.

This proof, plus the fact that there have been for many years practical methods of trisecting angles, have put the old problem in the class of mathematical recreation.

"Many people," cautions an algebra textbook, "have made themselves appear foolish by misunderstanding the nature of the problem and the actual facts regarding the present status of the solution."

Today, trisecting an angle, one of the oldest problems in mathematics, is one of the most completely misunderstood.

BRITISH ANNA FLOPS

Livestock Carcass Rendering Helps In Getting Rich Quick

By GEORGE MASTERS
AP Newfeatures

Redwood Falls, Minn.—Fifty-five-year-old Ralph Ballard's 11-year adventure with a debt-burdened "Main Street" business has paid off.

Ballard, a former county fair concessionaire who was more concerned with nickels and dimes than dollars in the early depression '30's, took over a weak livestock carcass rendering plant in this small Minnesota community in 1936. Its debt load was in excess of $30,000.

Now he has sold it. The business with eleven subsidiary plants plus a thriving livestock feed business brought him $1,800,000.

When Ballard set out to revive the long idle plant in 1936 with borrowed capital, he had seven or eight employees and five rather dilapidated trucks.

When he sold to the Farmers Union Livestock Commission Co. of St. Paul, the firm known as the Central Bi-Products Co., listed more than 200 men and women on its payroll and operated more than 100 trucks.

The firm converts livestock carcasses into grease and livestock feed ingredients. The hides go to tanning companies.

Ballard was not unfamiliar with the rendering business. He had owned a small rendering plant at Mankato, Minn., but sold it for $5,500 before the 1929 crash. Ironically, he paid $45,000 for the same business when he rebought it in 1942.

When sleeping sickness struck farms throughout the midwest in 1937, killing thousands of horses, Ballard's Redwood Falls plant boomed. From the dead animals he processed eight million pounds of raw materials. Then he began to expand, establishing a plant in northern Minnesota to save long truck hauls with dead animals. Other plants followed.

Now Ballard is looking forward to spring and the Minnesota fishing season. He says this is one year when he's really going to enjoy fishing for the big ones.

gress will agree later to a revision of the reorganization act under which a small committee could be set up for a continuing study of budget needs instead of the 102-member group now designated to do this job. Then, he added, "we might get somewhere."

Meanwhile Mr. Truman's request that Congress vote an extra $1,320,174,315 for government operation this year prompted Taber to comment:

"It has some of the earmarks of inability to understand fifth grade arithmetic."

The president sent his requests to Congress late yesterday. They include funds for numerous agencies, but the bulk of the total is earmarked for government relief in Army occupied areas, for tax refunds and for the post office department.

New York Producer Killed By Gas Fume Blast in Apartment

New York, Jan. 23 (AP)—Max Jelin, 40-year-old theatrical producer, was killed yesterday in a terrific explosion which police said was touched off by fumes pouring from four open gas jets in the kitchen of his luxurious mid-Manhattan apartment.

The blast, heard for blocks, wrecked the showman's apartment, damaged two others on the same floor and shook up occupants of the 18-story residential building at 300 East 57th street.

The official police report listed Jelin's death as "apparently suicide." Authorities continued their investigation.

The explosion collapsed the walls of the producer's richly-furnished flat on the 14th floor of the building, opened last November. Furniture in two other damaged apartments was crushed by falling debris and streams of hot water from burst pipes cascaded as far as the ninth floor.

The producer's body was identified by his wife, Molly, 38, and his mother who spent the afternoon away from the apartment. Detective James Markely quoted the two women as saying Jelin "was apparently despondent and in financial difficulties."

Day and Night Tax Collectors Prey On Farms

By HAROLD K. MILKS
AP Newfeatures

Hoihow, Hainan Island—Unhappy farmers of this tropical island pay taxes to the Chinese government by day and to the Chinese Communists by night.

During the war, however, they sometimes were forced to pay three sets of taxes. Here is how it worked, says a former planter who tired of serving two demanding masters and moved to Hoihow:

The Japanese ruled Hainan, formally, during the war years and they levied and collected taxes.

"But at nightfall, Chinese guerrillas who fled into the mountains when the Japanese landed, came out of hiding and as representatives of the Central Chinese government they too levied taxes—a cow, or a goat from one farm and grain or rice from another."

"Once they were gone a third 'tax collector' would appear representing the bandit gangs now called Communists. He too, collected under threat of grave harm to anyone foolish or brave enough to resist."

Refusal meant a burned farm house, looting, a beating or a bullet.

Extension of Communist influence, particularly in the interior of Hainan Island, has increased the practice of double taxation.

Not only are the Communists making taxation calls on farms but in some parts of the island they are establishing local governments complete with tax collectors.

Reports reach Hoihow regularly from the interior telling of the arrival of Chinese spears and a "foreign tongue"—the usual description for mainlanders as contrasted to the natives of Hainan.

Why, say the farmers, raise a crop or a herd and have it taken away by the night raiders or the government tax collectors?

So now Hainan has to have assistance from outside to keep its people alive.

Sex Differences In Ulcers Studied

Chicago, (SS)—Men are more likely to have stomach ulcers because women, although they react more to stress, relax more rapidly and recover more quickly.

The answer to sex differences in ulcers is explained by the way boys and girls react to stress, Dr. L. W. Sontag, of the Fels Research Institute, Yellow Springs, reported to the American Association for the Advancement of Science here this morning.

Dr. Sontag found that girls react more to stress, but that they also relax and recover more effectively than boys. "The experiments included plunging a child's hand or foot in to cold water for a minute, or tilting the person tested head down at a 45-degree angle for two and a half minutes, and then measuring changes in heart rate, blood pressure, electrical resistance of the skin, and other physical clues to emotion."

Although the shock of cold water or turning upside down is purely physical, Dr. Sontag ex-

MRS. OLOF ANDERSON
Funeral services for Mrs. Olof Anderson were held this afternoon, at 2 o'clock, at Bethany Lutheran church, with Rev. Gustav Lund officiating. Burial was in Gardens of Rest cemetery.

During the service, C. Arthur Anderson sang "Asleep in Jesus" and "Nearer, Still Nearer." His accompanist was Miss Ruth Glad. Fallbearers were Emil Stenstrom, David Westerberg, Levi Turnquist, Chris Nicholson, Lars Anderson and Nels Swanson.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Kraft, Chicago, and Mr. and Mrs. Howard Anderson, of Detroit, were among those at the funeral.

Two Burn to Death As Firemen Start Weed Patch Blaze

Oklahoma City, Jan. 23 (AP)—Two men died early today—fatally burned in a blaze lit by the Oklahoma City fire department.

The two victims were sleeping in a weed patch that firemen started to burn off to get rid of a fire hazard near the Santa Fe Railroad tracks here.

They were horrified to see two screaming figures, their clothes ablaze, leap up and run wildly about in their agony.

District Fire Chief Hayden Marrs and a spectator, Pascal Padlock, ran down one of the two, Cleo Clarence Bain, 42, and smothered the flames in an overcoat.

The other, Jimmie Lewis, 42, eluded other firemen in his terror and was reached only when he collapsed.

Both were taken to Mercy hospital. Before he died, Bain gasped the two had been downtown yesterday afternoon. Chilled by the cold front that hit Oklahoma yesterday, they had crept into the weed patch to sleep in warmth.

Camping and special events—Chairman—H. J. Skoquist; committeemen—Dave Phalen, Harold Mackie, Ray Shaw, Carl Olson, George Grenholm, Conrad Swanson.

Health and safety—Chairman—Fred Dedrick; committeemen—Rudy Erickson, C. A. Kinney.

Public relations—Chairman—George Lindenthal; committeemen—John Lemmer, J. R. Lovell, Henry Lombard.

In addition to the above appointments, Oscar Ohman was made assistant district commissioner and Rudy Jehn was made field commissioner for Cub Scouts.

These are the men that will help provide activities for the scouts of the Red Buck District in 1948.

Plans are being made to conduct a First Aid Contest, Camp-O-Ree, Merit Badge show, circus, Courts of Honor, dad and son overnight outing at Camp Red Buck, Dads for Cub Scouts and Cub and Boy Scout leaders training courses. An emergency service program will also be initiated.

Gunmen in Detroit Hotel Get $75,000 Haul in Mink Furs

Detroit, Jan. 23 (AP)—A widespread police search was pressed today after two discriminating gunmen held up a pair of New York fur salesmen during a hotel card game last night and made off with $75,000 worth of mink garments.

Held for questioning as a suspect in the theft was a man who Detective Lt. Charles O'Brien said was found loitering near room 1429 of the Statler Hotel where an alligator bag containing part of the loot—$18,000 in mink coats and wraps—was abandoned.

The victims, Henry Rosen and William Lewis, told police they were playing a game of gin rummy about 7 p. m. last evening when two unmasked bandits entered their room on the 14th floor.

"Turn around and keep quiet," they quoted one of the gunmen as saying.

They reported the pair then marched them into the bathroom, bound their hands with neckties and taped their mouths. Then the bandits packed a number of mink furs into large packing boxes in the room, ignoring 35 less valuable beaver and Persian lamb coats, and left.

U. S. Baseball, South America To Get Together

Columbus, O., Jan. 23 (AP)—The United States' sphere of influence—in baseball—is about to extend into South America.

That was indicated today when George M. Trautman, boss of the statewide minor leagues, said he would send an official observer next month to Panama, Venezuela, Puerto Rico and Colombia to study the situation.

Bob Finch, publicity director for the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues, and Trautman's right bower, has been named ambassador, and he's making the trip at the invitation of the Latin American groups.

Finch said he would stop off at Mexico City for a chat with Mexican Baseball Commissioner Alejandro Aguilar Reyes, who is about to shake hands with American Commissioner A. B. (Happy) Chandler, a gesture expected to put a halt to controversial either-way over-the-border talent raids.

The golden-tongued Finch also will visit Havana, where the Cuban league already has the blessing of the U. S. association, and where American minor leaguers—some 30 of them—play with their club's permission during the winter season.

Hankins, Lawrence Tech Ace, Leader In Case Scoring

New York, Jan. 23 (AP)—Norman Hankins, of Lawrence (Mich.) Tech, has taken over the individual scoring leadership among major or collegiate basketball teams with an average of 23.8 points for 15 games.

Figures disclosed today by the National Collegiate Athletic Bureau show Hankins has rimmed 149 field goals and 59 free throws for 357 points through games of Jan. 17. He tops Tony Lavelli, of Yale, by a narrow margin. Lavelli has an average of 23.2 with 113 double-doubles and 75 charity tosses for 301 points in 13 games.

George Kok, of Arkansas, co-leader in the Southwest Conference, is third with an average of 20.6 for 13 games and Frank Kuvelka, of St. Mary's (Calif.) fourth with 20.1 for nine games.

Gene Berce, of Marquette, last week's leader, slipped to fifth with a 19.7 average while Ernie Vandeweghe, of Colgate, second a week ago, now ranks sixth at 19.3. Murray Weir, of Iowa, is seventh at 19.1, and Michigan State's Bob Brannum ranks in the eleventh spot with a 17.2 average.

Hankins also has the top single game mark, a 33-point total against Carnegie Tech.

MIAA TIED UP

Albion, Mich., Jan. 23 (AP)—The MIAA basketball race was tied up today after Albion upset Hope 74 to 64 to move into a first-place deadlock with Alma. The Dutchmen, who won six games in a row before bowing to the fighting Albion quater here last night, invaded Alma Saturday in another crucial conference test.

Grid Dodgers Pose Problem

By Hugh Fullerton, Jr.

New York, Jan. 23 (AP)—Prediction: Some time before the next All-American conference meeting, Branch Rickey will come up with a supporter who has plenty of scratch and is willing to invest it in the Brooklyn All-American Conference Football club.

During his fight-to-a-finish oration about the National League at the Carl Voyles signing ceremony Wednesday, Branch took time out to remark that he'd have a statement within a few days on the subject of ownership.

Rickey is a stubborn gent and one who isn't likely to talk fight unless he means it. Neither is he a guy who'd sink a lot of his own dough into a proposition that is more likely to lose than gain money. . . . Ebbets Field only holds about 35,000 customers and at current prices it probably would take a sellout for every game just to break even.

Quickies

Just to lighten his solemn press conference, Rickey broke into the proceedings to call Barney Shotton across the room and announce: "This is the head coach in case anything happens to Voyles." . . . And when Sol Strauss got up at the Boxing Writers dinner, which produced everything but fisticuffs, someone started to hand him the microphone. "I don't want a mike," shouted Sol. "Mike's in Miami, Anyway."

One-Minute Sports Page

Word from the Midwest is that Bill Kern, ex-West Virginia U. coach, now has the inside track on the St. Louis football job. . . . Rochester's National Basketball league club holds the draft rights on Frank (Pep) Saul of Seton Hall, who still has a couple of seasons of college basketball ahead. . . . Middletown Charley Burley, who was hoisting scraps into a garbage wagon because he couldn't get scraps in the ring, has signed to meet Doc Williams in the Jersey City Armory Feb. 11. . . . The Golf Writers Association of America is conducting a poll to select the golfer of the year for 1947. This corner's vote goes to Bobby Locke. . . . Six high school footballers who made the all-

Southern prep team last fall have indicated they will enroll at Ole Miss. . . . apparently Ole Miss doesn't miss.

Go Westerly, Young Man

A basketball rival for Parrish High (Selma, Ala.) and Mount Pleasant (Schenectady, N. Y.) bobs up in Westerly, Rhode Island, where Jim Federico's high schoolers had won 207 games and lost 26 (mostly in post-season tournaments) from the 1937-38 season up to last Tuesday. Westerly had an 88-game winning streak for regular-season games which ended last year.

Cleaning the Cuff

NYU Track Coach Emil Von Elling contends that Leslie MacMittell is running a better time year than he has during the past two years. . . . When Penn Coach Don Kellett was introduced at a recent Philadelphia basketball writers lunch as "coach of the week," Don replied: "It's funny what a two-game winning streak will do for a guy."

Will Leo, Laraine Get Married Again?

Los Angeles, Jan. 23 (AP)—When Leo (Lippy) Durocher and movie actress Laraine Day will go through with plans for a second wedding ceremony remained an unanswered question today.

Miss Day received her final divorce decree yesterday from James Ray Henricks, aircraft parts salesman, but the manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers denied reports that he and the actress will go through with another marriage immediately.

PEGGY KIRK SIGNS

Belleair, Fla., Jan. 23 (AP)—Peggy Kirk continued to lead the way with a five-under-par-149 as the $3,000 Belleview-Biltmore women's open golf tournament moved into the third of its four 18-hole rounds today. Miss Kirk, Finlay, Ohio, amateur, had a 79 over the 6,347-yard par 77 course yesterday to better by a stroke her first sub-par round Wednesday.
